MURDER AND BIGAMY CASES AGAINST DAYTON DOCTOR

Legal Wife Living in Gem City Is Suing for Divorce—Several Mysterious Deaths.

Dayton, O., Nov. 11.—The career of crime charged to Dr. Oliver C. Haugh is one which if proven, would do credit to a Borgla.

His arrest followed the death of his parents and brother and then came charges of wholesale poisoning of women whom he had either duped or married.

Last Sunday the Haugh residence burned cremating three members of the family. The doctor, who is 34 years old, was himself burned severely. His rambling story led to an investigation and then came the sensational developments.

The authorities here are making a thorough investigation. Haugh's criminal record is supposed to date from 1897. Sheriff Wright fears Haugh will kill himself and for that reason is guarding him constantly.

In Lima Haugh met Mrs. Twohey, whom he treated, making her a cocaine fiend. She died under mysterious circumstances in Lorain. Haugh went to Chicago and married Anna D. Patterson. One, Anna D. Patterson died in Chicago suddenly from paralysis, a death similar to that caused by hyocine. Another woman of the same name died without medical attention. It is not known which was Haugh's wife.

Officers believe he killed women in Toledo and Milwaukee. Haugh is charged now with having poisoned parents and brother. His wife, who was Florence Eckley, has entered suit for divorce on the ground that he threatened to kill her. Her father, George Eckley, died under mysterious circumstances, and, it is now believed that he was poisoned.

IN TROUBLE IN WISCONSIN.
Appleton, Wis., Nov. 11.—Dr. Haugh had a short career here several years ago. It is said he got in trouble but escaped before arrest.

ANOTHER VICTIM.
Lorain, O., Nov. 11.—W. C. Parrish, a B. & O. brakeman, who died at St. Joseph's hospital, may have been a victim of Dr. Haugh's drugs. Parrish was in Haugh's rooming house the night of February 16, 1904. He became ill and Haugh gave him treatment.

MORE SENSATIONS COMING.
Lima, O., Nov. 11.—That Dr. Haugh is a bigamist as well as an alleged murderer, is the belief of ex-Coroner Herrman, who stated today that Haugh had on several occasions shown him the marriage license for his wedding to a woman named Patterson, now living in Chicago. Herrman says Haugh admitted he does not know how many women he has married.

DEMONSTRATION

Against Turkey Owing to Porte's Continued Refusal to Agree to Financial Reforms.

London, Nov. 11.—It is stated in official circles here that the reports that an agreement has been arrived at between the powers concerning a naval demonstration against Turkey owing to the port's continued refusal to agree to the financial reforms proposed for Macedonia are correct. All the powers, it is asserted here, including Great Britain and Germany, have agreed in principle that a demonstration shall be made, but the details have not yet been determined.

ROBBED POOR BOX

After Chase of Two Blocks and a Long Struggle Father John Watson Caught the Fellow.

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 11.—After a chase of two blocks and a prolonged struggle, during which he used his fists to such good effect that his victim cried "enough," Rev. Father John R. Watson, assistant pastor of St. Matthew's church, captured a man who he claims robbed the church's poor box of $21. The arrested man gave his name as Castmirelwich, and his home as Chicago. He admitted the theft.

VALUABLE GEMS

Stolen by Painter Harold Prescott, Who Confesses to Theft of Jewels Worth $100,000.

New York Nov. 11.—Confession to the robbery of $100,000 worth of gems from fashionable New York homes in the last two years was made by Harold Prescott, a painter. His profit on pawning the jewelry, Prescott said, was but little over $5,000. Almost by accident the painter was arrested in connection with a recent small robbery, and the police were ignorant of the value of their arrest until his arraignment. Prescott said that his thefts could not be concealed much longer, and then confessed. Immediate search was made of pawnshops he named, and the police say they have recovered $20,000 worth of the stolen gems already. Prescott obtained entrance to the houses he robbed by securing employment in them as a painter. Prescott was later sentenced to five years in Sing Sing.

NEGRO HANGED

Accomplice Was to Have Died at the Same Time but the Governor Granted a Respite.

Greenville, S. C., Nov. 11.—Fletcher Byrd, a negro, was hanged here for the murder of Magistrate Cox, white, on May 14, 1904. His accomplice, Palmer Creswell, was to have been hanged at the same time, but was respite at 12 o'clock midnight by the governor. The killing was brought on through an attempted violation of the dispensary law.

Germans Defeat Natives.
Berlin, Nov. 11.—Major Count Adolf von Goetzen, governor of German East Africa, reports by way of Cape Town that the natives have been beaten in five fights near Songea, and that 4,000 Wamungu tribesmen were defeated October 21 near Nyambengo. The German troops had no casualties, but the natives suffered heavily.

BIGAMY CHARGED

But Reid Says His First Wife Died Before He Left England Some Years Ago.

White Plains, N. Y., Nov. 11.—Albert V. Deane Reid, who is endeavoring to secure the release of his bride from Bloomingdale asylum, to which she was taken the evening following her marriage by her brothers, was arrested at the close of the habeas corpus proceedings hearing on a bench warrant signed by Recorder Goff of New York city. Reid having been indicted by the New York county grand jury upon a charge of bigamy. Reid denounced his arrest as an outrage and denied his guilt. He said the arrest was not unexpected, as his brothers-in-law had hinted at something of the kind. Reid said his first wife died before he left England some years ago.

TOLEDO EDITOR WIELDS AX

RECALLS INCIDENT AT GRAVE OF LATE SENATOR HANNA

Rank and File of Party Shocked at Spectacle of Wire Pulling at Hanna's Funeral.

Toledo, O., Nov. 11.—The Toledo Blade, recognized the country over as one of the strongest of Republican papers, published an editorial last night that has thrown consternation into the camp of the machine men. The editorial says in part:

"In his published statement bearing on the election in Ohio Gov. Herrick takes direct issue with those who are continually pleading for independence in politics. The difficulty is that while much of the so-called political independence of the day is not true independence which places patriotism above party, but a demagogic appeal to the voters, the party leaders themselves are largely responsible for the condition. Confident in a well defined majority they have arrogantly ignored the popular wish or nominated weak men only to find when too late that the American people are always jealous of their sovereignty and will not bow meekly to the behests of individuals who assume authority they do not possess."

"The rank and file who attended Senator Hanna's funeral in Cleveland under the impression that it was an occasion for mourning the loss of an honest chief, were disgusted with the political wire-pulling that took place over his grave. Both Dick and Foraker were more interested in learning the new direction of Ohio politics than they were distressed over the sad mission which had summoned them to seize the mantle of leadership."

"Dick was bent on being Senator had left no stone unturned to secure pledges from members of the legislature. Foraker preferred that the honor should go to the Governor, not for Herrick's sake, but because he saw through the elevation of Lieutenant Governor Harding an opportunity to again become the leader of Ohio Republicans. That was the spectacle presented to the Republican workers who had assembled in Cleveland to attend a funeral, and it was the inauguration of a program that culminated in Tuesday's disaster. Dick won out, and Foraker, still disappointed over his defeat, is able to view the utter rout of that combination effected at that time with a magnificent display of equanimity."

"Instead of permitting the Republicans of Ohio to say who should be their candidate for Governor, and we have no doubt they would have spoken for Herrick in accord with a well-known principle of the party that a faithful public servant is entitled to a second term. Senator Dick had himself interviewed a dozen times. If once, to give out the impression that, as he favored Herrick, that should settle the matter. And lest there might be some misunderstanding, George B. Cox countersigned the order."

Michael McDermott, who was serving a sentence for drunkenness, burned to death in a padded cell at the county jail at Newark, N. J.

Court-martial proceedings in the case of Sidney S. Burbanks, first lieutenant Sixth Infantry, have been concluded and papers forwarded to Washington to recommend his dismissal from the service. Burbanks deserted his Filipino wife.

THREE OHIO MAYORS HAVE BUT THREE LEGS.

Democratic mayors were elected at Bellaire, Martin's Ferry and Bridgeport (this last Tuesday). There are only three good legs among these three new officials who live in towns on the Ohio river front. Dr. J. W. Blackford, the mayor-elect of Martin's Ferry, has two good legs; George Bresnock, the new mayor of Bridgeport, has only one good leg, while George Kompert, elected at Bellaire, has two wooden legs.

INDICTMENTS IN SUIT CASE MYSTERY AGAINST 5 PEOPLE

No Bill However Was Returned Against Young Morris Nathan, the Girl's Lover.

Boston, Nov. 11.—Three men and two women were indicted today on a charge of complicity in the death of Susanna Geary, victim of the suit case tragedy, by the Suffolk county grand jury in Superior criminal court. The defendants are Dr. Percy McLeod, Lewis Crawford, and William E. Howard, alias Hunt, Mrs. Mary S. Dean, and a fugitive who is the fifth defendant. No bill was returned against Morris Nathan, the girl's lover.

TIED TO RAILS

Death at Gambier Two Weeks Ago

THIS IS CORONER'S VERDICT

GRAND JURY WILL MEET NEXT MON-DAY AT MT. VERNON

Coroner Does Not Fix Responsibility
Leaving That to Prosecutor Stillwell.

Mt. Vernon, O., Nov. 11.—Stuart Pierson was tied to the rails of the railroad bridge where he met his death two weeks ago at Kenyon college, just before his initiation into the D. K. E. fraternity. The verdict of Coroner Scarborough was made public here this morning, following the inquest of last week.

Coroner Scarborough declares in his verdict that he could have reported long ago that the boy was tied to the track, but he wished to probe the matter further in order to get more evidence for the prosecutor to act upon. Scarborough finds that "Stuart Pierson met his death by being tied to the tracks or otherwise bound or tied in such a manner that he could not extricate himself from his perilous position and while so tied or bound was run over by an engine and tender on said railroad bridge."

The engine, says the verdict, struck the boy while he was lying flat between the rails of the main track of the bridge. The coroner does not fix the responsibility for Pierson's death, leaving that to the prosecutor. The latter is expected to bring the case before the grand jury which meets here Monday.

The coroner says he examined 33 witnesses, whose testimony was all reduced to writing and filed with the papers in the case.

"The testimony was a lished beyond question of doubt," says the coroner, "that Pierson was lying about 20 feet west of the abutment between the rails of the main track, west of Gambier station tied to the rails."

"Under the peculiar circumstances of this case, it is impossible for me to determine who is the party or parties are."

Prosecuting Attorney Stillwell today said "I shall file this case to the grand jury convened next Monday and shall demand an immediate investigation. I have said in fact, I shall prove that Pierson was tied to the track. I shall probe to the very bottom and shall do everything in my power to bring the guilty parties to justice."

Mass Meeting Held Tonight Will be Addressed by W. R. Hearst and Thomas W. Lawson.

Albany, N. Y., Nov. 11.—(Bulletin)—Gov. Higgins declines to interfere in the mayoralty fight with regard to Hearst's petition to place the ballot boxes in the armories.

New York, Nov. 11.—In the event of the courts not having made an adjudication of the mayoralty contest in this city by the first of the year, it is said Wm. R. Hearst has decided to take the oath of office and demand possession of the office. In that event, New York will have two mayors. Both would send messages to the board of aldermen and since the board is Republican it would be interesting to see which message would be acted upon. Doubtless both mayors would appoint various commissioners and there would be no end of fun with one commissioner trying to oust the other, while the courts will be filled for months with tangled litigations. The courts would have to determine which mayor was rightfully entitled to the office.

Application will be made at Albany today by Mr. Hearst's representative to have the ballot boxes stored in the armory and guarded by State troops until they are needed in the courts. A mass meeting of the Citizens' Protective League will be held tonight to protest against the proposition of the ballot. Thomas W. Lawson and W. R. Hearst will make speeches. Every effort will be made to make the meeting nonpartisan.

Winner of the Freak Election Bet Insists That Dr. Hisey Carry Out His Agreement.

Cleveland, O., Nov. 11.—If he pays an election bet he made with Member Matt Excell, of the Board of Public Safety, a month before election, Rev. M. W. Hisey, formerly a Zanesville minister, later a politician, will spend one week as an inmate of the Massillon State Hospital for the Insane. Hisey was so sure of Herrick's triumph that he made the offer himself. Excell wrote him a letter today demanding that he carry out the terms of the wager without delay.

Zanesville, Nov. 11.—"I was all a josh," persisted Dr. Hisey when interviewed last evening as to his fulfilling his end of the wager. "Do you suppose a man with any sense would go up there and stay a week?" queried the politician.

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 11.—The Rev. W. B. Hendrix is dead in Irvington. He was a minister of the Christian church, well known throughout the country. He came into prominence first as a pastor of the Christian church at Mentor, Ohio, during the Garfield campaign. James A. Garfield was a member of the church of which he was pastor. He was for many years pastor of the church and conducted the funeral.

OFFICIAL COUNT

Both Parties Claiming State Officers and Lower House—What Late Saturday Returns Show.

Columbus, Nov. 11.—(Noon)—The indications today point to the certain election of all the Republican state candidates except Herrick. The Democrats seem to have carried the Senate and both parties are today claiming the House. The official count will be necessary to determine exactly the number of Democratic and Republican legislators elected. The slowness of the returns on Legislature and minor state candidates and the closeness of the results have aroused great interest and every candidate affected has persons here watching his interests.

Columbus, Nov. 11.—Complete returns from 60 counties, received at Republican state headquarters, show the several candidates on the state ticket to be running more than 700 votes to the county ahead of Herrick. Chairman Dick sent word to State Treasurer McKinnon that there was not a bit of doubt of his election. State Chairman Garber claims the election of Houck, and says the vote on the other candidates for state offices is close. The defeat of M. Dickey (Dem.) for representative from Franklin county, on the official count, was the only assured change noted in the line-up of the legislature. On the face of the returns this would make the house 62 Republicans to 59 Democrats. There was no new data to show the changes in the senate, which stands 19 Democrats to 18 Republicans. Chairman Garber, however, claims it is a Democratic by two votes. Whether the official count and contests over seats change the prospective control of either branch of the legislature, it is evident that the margin between the parties will be small.

Republican partisans here are discussing the question whether under the provisions of the constitutional amendments adopted by vote of the people at the recent election, Governor Herrick has power to convene the legislature in extraordinary session for the purpose of extending his term and that of all members of the legislature, together with other state officers whose terms expire with that of the governor. Attorney General Wade Ellis said: "Such action would be a piece of political infamy which would doom the Republican officials affected to oblivion for the rest of their natural lives. I am certain that no one has considered taking advantage of such an opening, even if it existed. It would be a most flagrant injustice to the people of the state. Everyone knows that the people voted upon the amendment in the belief that any and all power carried by the amendment applied to the next legislature. Not one had a suspicion that there was such a possible loophole."

Senator Lewis B. Houck was here in consultation with State Chairman Garber. The senator claimed his election to the Lieutenant governorship. He has undoubtedly run next to Patton. Governor and Mrs. Herrick have gone to Cleveland. The governor will take a trip for rest and will be gone a fortnight.

Chairman Garber and Secretary Finley sent a joint letter to Democratic chairmen, which closes as follows: "Do not construe the returns in the light of a partisan victory. Consider them as a warning of patriots. Mr. Pattison cannot be swayed from the path of duty. Let no Democrat be tempted. This is the beginning of a lease of power that we alone can terminate. Let us show that we are trustworthy and by our conduct merit a continuance of the confidence of a decent electorate."

LIKED HIM BEST

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 11.—Joseph Hensworthy, who asked for a divorce yesterday, said the dirtier his wife saw him the better she liked him. He explained that his business as a belt maker sometimes called him out late at night, and that if he came home with a dirty shirt his wife was satisfied, but if he was clean she suspected he had been paying attention to other women.

"Do you mean to say that your wife did not like to see you with a clean shirt on?" asked Judge Allen, much amused.

"That's it," replied the plaintiff. The court refused the divorce.

AMERICAN CONSUL DEAD.
Czechoslovakia, Nov. 11.—John S. T. Wells, American consul here, died this morning.

A quantity of wood alcohol, which he intended to be whiskey swallowed by Ira Dorrain, a private in the fourth training company at the Columbus barracks, assigned as the cause of his death.

Over 100 defendants are reported missing off the prefecture of Kagoshima. There is a severe storm and heavy rain.

Pittsburg, Nov. 11.—Edward George Cunliffe, the Adams Express clerk, who turned thief on an impulse of the moment, when he had $100,000 in United States currency in his hands then stole $1,000 more of his employer's money, must serve a sentence of six years in the Western penitentiary. This is the limit of punishment imposed by the law. Judge McFarlane pronounced the sentence today after a long hearing, and added a fine of $200 to the imprisonment. It developed at the hearing that Cunliffe will get $6,532.40 for the time he serves, if the stolen money is not recovered before he regains his freedom. The rest of the money has been recovered. This amount is nearly double that of the salary he had been receiving. There were two indictments for larceny, on which he must serve three years each. Cunliffe was without counsel.

CONTRIBUTIONS BY METROPOLITAN

TO REPUBLICAN CAMPAIGN FUND TO DEFEAT FREE SILVER
IN YEAR 1896.

President Hageman Says That This
Was the Only Time Company Had Contributed.

New York, Nov. 11.—In his testimony before the legislative committee, President Hageman of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company, said his company had made but two campaign contributions, and they were both in 1896. One thousand dollars was given to the Palmer and Buckner gold Democratic managers, and $7,500 to the national Republican committee. These contributions, Mr. Hageman said, were made with the approval of the finance board, and were more a moral than a political move to assist in defeating the "16 to 1" heresy. Mr. Hageman said the Metropolitan company obtained Life Insurance company obtained bonds for its agents from either the American Surety company or the National Surety company. Mr. Hageman holds 10 shares of the National. The bond required of agents is $50, and the premium is recovered from the agent by the company. Witness did not know the premium.

The subject of loans was taken up. It was shown that the Metropolitan Life made loans of $100,000 to $200,000 at 1 1/2 per cent. interest to William Reade, of the firm of Vermilye & Co., on various dates in 1901 to 1903. The market rate for call loans was at the time from 4 1/2 to 5 per cent. Vermilye & Co. were the bankers of the Metropolitan at that time, and when Mr. Reade resigned from Vermilye & Co. and went into business for himself he became the company's banker. Mr. Hageman's explanation for making loans below market rate was that same as he had given for making the loans to John A. McCall, president of the New York Life, at the same low rate. That valuable services had been rendered the company and it ought to repay favors where it could.

The Unity Reading Circle entertained in a charming manner Friday evening at the home of Mrs. Fant on North Fourth street, celebrating the tenth anniversary of its organization. Upon the arrival of the guests, they were presented with tin souvenirs engraved with the dates "1895-1905" and the words "Unity Reading Circle." The double parlors were artistically decorated with festoons of red and white ribbons, the circle's colors, and the large bow window was banked with palms and flowers, and the dates "1895-1905" were displayed in a conspicuous manner on a red background. Hearts also formed an artistic decoration. The guests assembled at 7:30 o'clock, and a short program was given. Miss Milla Burch gave the history of the circle in a most interesting manner, and at the conclusion of the history, the charter members were requested to stand, and then each one was presented with a beautiful rose, with the compliments of the hostess. Mrs. Fant, Mrs. Cora Laird then delighted all hearers with a vocal solo in her usual inimitable manner.

After this brief, but interesting program, an elaborate course supper was served, the guests finding their partners by matching dissected pictures. The table was prettily decorated in red and white and at each place was a red and white carnation, the club flower. After the discussion of an elaborate menu the following toasts were responded to: "All-Wise," by Mr. F. M. B. Winkle; "Why We Belong to the Unity Reading Circle," Mrs. I. M. Phillips, and "Bachelor Girls," by Rev. L. C. Sparks, each one clever and interesting and in keeping with the happy vein of the evening.

Misses Margaret Matlicks, Ethel Hirst, Louise Norpell and Frances Brandt were charming assistants of the hostess. Anagrams, a social game, was then enjoyed, after which the gentlemen engaged in "The Battle of Laundry Lane," affording much amusement to the on-lookers. Prizes, in the form of tin musical instruments were awarded to the winners. The anniversary of the circle was certainly the most enjoyable affair yet given, and the next one is looked forward to with pleasurable anticipation.

The guests of the circle were: Mrs. Fant, Mrs. Cora Laird, Mrs. M. B. Winkle, Mrs. I. M. Phillips, Mrs. L. C. Sparks, Mrs. F. M. B. Winkle, Mrs. J. M. Garber, Mrs. W. H. Davis, Mrs. W. FILED COMPLAINT AGAINST SNORER WITH POLICE CHIEF

Because of his reputation as a snorer, a colored porter employed in a business house in North Park Place is having great difficulty in procuring apartments in Newark. All this trouble came out Friday when a colored woman residing in Oklahoma sought an interview with Chief Sheridan and related to him a most doleful tale. She said the man came to her house a week ago and engaged a room, paying a week's rent in advance. She claims that she was deceived. She says he is surely the champion snorer of the state. "I've said the neighbors filed complaints with the woman saying that never before had they been troubled with musicians in the community. They asked that she request her roomer to cease his practicing on 'that bass horn'."

The complaint was of such an unusual nature that for an instant the chief was at a loss to know how to act. He then advised the woman to persuade her obnoxious guest to take his departure as peaceably as possible. Among his friends, the colored gentleman has an enviable reputation. His snore is said to have that resonant quality which would put the sonorous fog horn to shame. It resembles very much the mighty steam whistles heard on the big lake steamers. A phonograph company ought to hire him.

WEDDINGS.

TWO WEDDINGS.

Two weddings were solemnized at St. Paul's Lutheran parsonage Thursday evening at 6:30 o'clock, pastor J. C. Schindel officiating. Miss Mary L. Brown of Newark, was married to Mr. John D. Sager of Basil, Fairfield county, and Miss Laura E. McElwee was married to Mr. Harry E. Collins, both of Granville. Mr. Sager has recently rented a farm near Newark to which place he and his bride went immediately after the ceremony. Mr. Collins is a favorably known motorman on the C. N. & Z. running between the city and Granville, and Mrs. Collins is a representative of one of Granville's best families. They will make their home at No. 24 Western avenue where they are now receiving the congratulations of their many friends.

Better Than Spanking.

Spanking does not cure children of truant tendencies. If it did there would be few children that would do it. There is a constitutional cure for this. Mrs. M. Summerville, 1504 St. John's street, will send her home treatment to any mother. She asks no money. Write her today if your children trouble you in this way. Don't blame the child. The chances are it can't help it.

STATE NEWS

Garber's Future Home.

Columbus, O., Nov. 11.—Hon. Harvey C. Garber, chairman of the Democratic state committee, will become a permanent resident of Columbus, although he will retain his legal and voting residence in Greenville, Darke county, at least until the expiration of his term as congressman from the Fourth district in March, 1907. He has purchased a residence in East Broad street.

Epidemic of Diphtheria.

Niles, O., Nov. 11.—Diphtheria has taken from the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Morrill two little girls, and is threatening the lives of the two remaining children. Nurses have refused to go to the stricken family, and the parents are almost prostrated with grief and exhaustion. Twenty-five cases of diphtheria are reported to date.

Dead From Burns.

Stockport, O., Nov. 11.—Mrs. Sarah Dobbins is dead as the result of burns from the explosion of a can of oil three weeks ago. Her husband, John Dobbins, was burned some time ago and lived only three days.

Booth Company Not a Trust.

Cleveland, O., Nov. 11.—Judge Taylor, of the United States district court, handed down a decision, holding in effect that the A. Booth & Co. is not a trust, and that it does not control the price of fish and oysters, directly or indirectly. The Booth company sued E. H. Edson and other stockholders of the Buckeye Fish company of Cleveland for damages on the ground that the defendants had engaged in the fish business after they had sold out to the Booth company with the agreement that the Buckeye company would not again enter business. The Buckeye company averred that the Booth company was a trust, and therefore the agreement they had entered into was not binding. Judge Taylor granted a decree of $98,000 in favor of the Booth company.

Will Pay All Claims.

Lorain, O., Nov. 11.—It has been announced that a dividend of 50 per cent. will be paid creditors of the defunct Citizens Savings bank of this city, which failed March 31. The probate court has ordered the payment of the dividend, and it is said that all the claims against the bank will be paid in 18 months.

Woman Charged With Arson.

Bellefontaine, O., Nov. 11.—Mrs. Nora England, bearing in her arms a four-week-old babe, was brought to the county jail on the charge of arson, returned against her by the last grand jury. The woman was arrested in London. Mrs. England is suspected of having burned her home to get the insurance.

Licking County Election.

Among the returns specially pleasing to us is the election of W. A. Ashbrook representative, and E. M. P. Brister, probate judge. Mr. Ashbrook is the corresponding secretary of the National Editorial Association; Judge Brister is a well known alumnus of Denison university.—Cambridge Jeffersonian.

Cattle and Sheep.

Never during the past thirty years have farmers stocked up so sparingly with cattle or sheep to feed for the early summer market. There is corn, hay and fall pasture in abundance. The reason is, of late years matured stock when fattened does not pay for the feed consumed during the winter, to say nothing about the interest to be paid, and trouble and work.

Little Red Ridinghood.

Messrs. Perkins and Speck came from Zanesville this morning having directed the giving of "Little Red Ridinghood" in that city last evening. They will assist and direct the giving of the same cantata in Taylor hall, Y. M. C. A. Tuesday evening under the auspices of the junior choir and friends of St. Paul's Lutheran church. Over sixty adults and young people are in the cast.

WILLIAMS NOW IN GEORGETOWN

NEWARK MAN TAKEN AWAY TO ANSWER SERIOUS CHARGE IN BROWN COUNTY.

Prisoner Had Nothing to Add to Statement He Made to The Advocate on Friday.

Nothing new in the case in which Ray Williams is charged by W. M. Montgomery, of Sardinia, with a serious crime in connection with the death of Hattie Montgomery, developed Friday afternoon when W. P. Bradford, marshal of the village of Georgetown, arrived in Newark to take charge of the prisoner.

Marshal Bradford brought the affidavit which was signed by W. M. Montgomery, a brother of the dead girl, and the warrant which was issued by Mayor Kirkpatrick of Georgetown. It charges that on the blank day of October, Williams sent drugs to the Montgomery girl. The document does not name the nature of the drugs. She then became desperately ill and was removed to her home from her place of employment. Her death ensued on November 9.

Other than the information contained in the affidavit, the officer could furnish no new features of the story. Williams as far as could be learned, bore a good reputation while at Sardinia, though he was practically a stranger there. The prisoner refused to talk further on the matter, though the officer did not attempt an interview Friday night. A brother of the prisoner visited him after supper Friday night, and talked with him for some time. Marshal Bradford left Saturday morning at 5:55 for Cincinnati and Georgetown with his prisoner.

AUTO WINNER BOY AGED TEN

LAD WILL GO TO COLUMBUS ON MONDAY TO CLAIM THE MACHINE.

He Bought a Ten Cent Badge and Got Lucky Number—16000 Badges Were Sold.

Out of 16,000 chances on the Rambler automobile sold by the Columbus Badge company, one ten cent badge, purchased by ten-year-old Russell Lees, son of Willis Lees of Union Station, was the lucky number, and the lad is now entitled to the machine which is still in possession of the company at Columbus.

One of the members of the firm visited Newark Friday in an effort to locate the lucky person and was told that he was then on his way to Columbus to claim the auto. This proved to be a mistake. The machine was won by a school boy and he will go to Columbus Monday to get his prize.

No one but the boy or his father can get the machine. This statement was made to the Advocate Saturday afternoon by the Badge company at Columbus and is merely a precaution taken to see that only the holder of the right number gets the auto. The number which won the machine, as stated Friday, was 10,207. It was one out of 16,000 chances sold in Columbus, Newark and Lancaster.

B. and O. Frieman Ray Burge, who is a relative of the Lees boy, visited the Advocate and this paper talked with the Columbus people over long distance 'phone to learn the true state of affairs.

Prayed For What Was Best.

Some sixty years ago there lived in Gorham, Me., a quiet character, Parson Bradley. He was an itinerant preacher of the Methodist church and was noted for his original and familiar expressions in prayers.

Upon one occasion he was preaching in North Yarmouth, a township near Gorham, but not its equal as a farming community. There had been dry weather, and some one requested the parson to pray for rain.

In his prayer he said: "O Lord, these people say they need rain. I say they need manure. Give them what they need most."—Boston Herald.

A Defense.

The ladie sat straightly up in bed lest the sandman come and find him. His mother was reading a tale of the sheep and the tails they left behind them. But his fingers and head and arms and hands seemed all on a rattling riot. "You dear little wriggler!" at last she cried. "Why can you not keep quiet?" The baby's voice in a quiver broke, his eyes with tears were gleaming. "I des you wouldn't keep still," he spoke, "if your foot was gone a-dreaming!"—St. Louis Republic.

Tonebr.

"Beg pardon, madam," said the clerk, "but what did you say your name was?"

"I didn't say," snapped the society person who had just completed her seventh matrimonial venture. "All you need to know is what my name is!"—Catholic Standard and Times.

Fatal.

"Poor Perkins has gone broke."

"Why, what did it?"

"He took money matters out of his wife's hands and ran the house on business principles for two weeks."—Judge.

Hence the Delay.

A tradesman whose place of business is in close proximity to a post-office sent his errand boy out with letters to post. The lad, who seemed to have taken an unnecessary time for the transaction, was asked on his return by his master why he had been so long.

What He Worked.

"Smoothly got his new mining scheme on its feet in a week."

"Worked wonders, eh?"

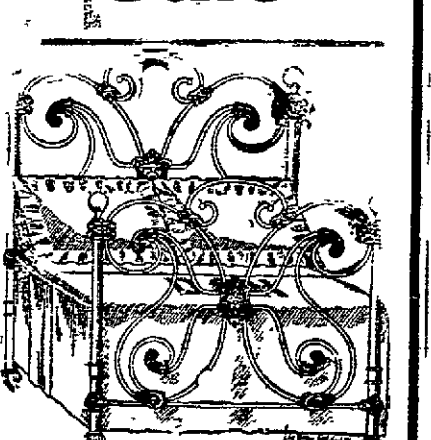

"Not worked suckers."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

The Danger of Bed.

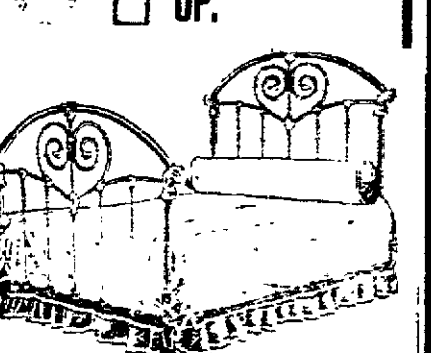

What does the man in the street see in a bed? Probably a bed, possibly a washstand, probably a chair, but what does the eye of science behold? Unpleasant things perhaps—beds and bacteria, mattresses and microbes, dressing gowns and deadly gases, gas jets and carbonic oxide, tapestries and toxics. It is little wonder that so many people say their progress before going to bed or that so many people die there.—London Chie.

THE COUNT FOR BOARD OF PUBLIC SERVICE.

There is a prevalent belief throughout the city that the alleged errors in counting the ballots caused the defeat of Mr. Weisgerber for Board of Public Service. While the mistakes in throwing out marked ballots for this office, doubtless affected all candidates somewhat, investigation of the subject makes it appear that Mr. Weisgerber's vote was affected more than anyone of the other candidates with the exception, perhaps, of that of Mr. Christian. As Mr. Weisgerber was only defeated by 23 votes on the face of the returns, the belief has become prevalent that he would have been declared elected had all the legally marked ballots as to Board of Public Service been counted. There is no charge made anywhere of any intention or purpose on the part of the judges of elections in the different precincts to commit a wrong or do injustice. The trouble seems to consist entirely of a misunderstanding in some of the precincts as to the instructions of the Board of Elections regarding the counting of marked ballots for this office.

The complication that caused uncertainty in the minds of election judges was the fact that there were three candidates on each ticket for the office of Public Service Board.

The newspapers did all they could to make the matter plain to the voters. But disputes or misunderstandings seem to have arisen among precinct judges that were not fully anticipated.

The result is shown in a comparison of the total vote for Mayor and Board of Public Service. The total vote for Mayor was 6116, while that for the Board of Public Service was 4312, showing that 1304 ballots were not counted for the B. P. S. that were counted for Mayor. Even adding together the vote of the two highest candidates for B. P. S., that of Christian and Weisgerber, which makes a total of 5185, still shows a shortage of 931 votes as compared with the total for Mayor.

This incident in the election in this city is only one of many thousands showing the complications and facilities for reversing the will of the people that exist in the Ohio election law and the absurd Australian ballot. These complications and the partisan power invested in one man which the present law has saddled upon the people, call for the immediate repeal of the law or its radical revision. This is one of the imperative duties that will devolve upon the incoming Legislature.

Saves Children's Lives. THOMPSON'S BAROSMA.

Do you realize that the annoying kidney trouble of your young children, of your baby, will lead in time to fatal results if not remedied? Thousands of children, of young men and women, die every year because of the neglect of parents to give the proper care in this respect in their early years. Mrs. Fred Lobenz, of Titusville, Pa., writes that her little son four years old, after being given three bottles of Thompson's Barosma, was permanently cured of bed-wetting, an annoying trouble since babyhood. Mrs. N. F. Tesler, of the City, Pa., says her four-year-old daughter, after several months of ineffective treatment by physicians for bladder trouble, and being in dangerous condition, was completely cured by six bottles of Thompson's Barosma. Kidney and liver cure. Thompson's Barosma is absolutely harmless, 50c and $1.00. THE WILES, HERMAN DRUG CO.

HERO OF SEVERAL WARS.

Admiral Seymour and His Career.

His Record in China.
Sir Edward Hobart Seymour, admiral of the British navy, who is now on a visit to the United States, is a hero of the Chinese war, of the Egyptian war of 1882 and of the Boxer insurrection of 1900. He once jumped into the ocean in a spot where sharks abounded to save a sailor from drowning and while on duty in Africa rescued a British vessel from pirates. He is sixty-five years old, unmarried and has had an adventurous career.

One of the most strenuous experiences Admiral Seymour ever passed through was his command of the famous expedition intended for the relief of the foreign legations imprisoned at Peking when the Boxer insurrection broke out. He was at that time commander in chief of the China station of the British navy. When the precarious situation of the foreign legations became known, an expedition was formed under his leadership from the officers and men of the warships then at Taku. Rear Admiral Bowman H. McCalla was in charge of the American marines, numbering 100, who made up part of the expedition. Besides the English and Americans, there were Russian, German, Japanese, Italian and Austrian marines in the command. The allies had sharp fighting with the Boxers, but pushed their way toward Peking until it became apparent that their numbers were too small to cope with the large force in front of the Chinese capital. Retreat was then decided upon. On the way back to Tientsin the allies were surrounded and were in danger of being cut to pieces, but were rescued at last, although not until many losses in killed and wounded had been sustained.

CHARLES G. DAWES.

The Young Man Sisted For Secretary Shaw's Shoes.

The expected retirement of Leslie M. Shaw as secretary of the treasury at the close of the present year has given rise to speculation as to his successor. The man slated for his place is Charles G. Dawes, who was comptroller of the currency from 1898 to 1902. Mr. Dawes is only forty years of age and was born in Marietta, O. He graduated at nineteen from Marietta college.

CHARLES G. DAWES.

and took up the study of law. While at college he acquired a knowledge of civil engineering and for a time after graduation was chief engineer of what was then known as the Marietta, Columbus and Northern railroad. He was admitted to the bar in 1886 and in 1887 removed to Lincoln, Neb., to take up the practice of law. He became a friend of William J. Bryan, although the two men differed radically in their views of finance. In 1894 he published a book on that subject, entitled "The Banking System of the United States and Its Relations to the Money and Business of the Country."

Business came to claim more of Mr. Dawes' attention than law, and in 1896 he took up his residence in Evanston, Ill., to become president of a gas and coke company. In 1896 he was prominent in the movement for the nomination of Major McKinley for president. His father, General R. B. Dawes, had been one of the commanders of the "Iron Brigade" of the West in the civil war. General Dawes was in contact with Mr. McKinley. Not long after assuming office President McKinley appointed Mr. Dawes comptroller of the currency. He resigned at the close of 1901 and has since been engaged in banking. In 1890 he married Miss Caro Blymer of Cincinnati. Mr. Dawes is a liberal descendant of the William Dawes, who petitioned Paul Revere to notify the patriots of the coming of the British.

Kelway and the Customs

Copyright, 1911, by H. B. McClure

"No," said Miss Clovis, "I do not think that this trip holds for me any special souvenir."

"Nothing to remember, to recall, in after years as one of the patches of sunlight on life's checkered road?"

"Nothing," she said decidedly. "Three days of wretched seasickness and four days of storm tossed waters and seven days with an unhealthy mind."

"Do you care so much?" he asked softly. "I had hoped you had forgiven and forgotten."

"Really, Mr. Kelway," she said, "I am surprised that you should imagine for a moment that the incidents of last month still linger in my mind."

"Marjorie," he began softly.

"Miss Clovis, if you please," she corrected.

"I said Marjorie," he repeated. "Miss Clovis does not please me just at present."

"Then Miss Clovis will withdraw her undesirable presence," she began. Kelway held her hand in an iron grip.

"It has taken me the entire trip to get you alone," he said. "I am going to hold you prisoner until you listen to an explanation."

"If you propose to use brute force I shall not make a scene," she said coldly, "but I have assured you a dozen times that I have no desire to reopen a dead issue."

"It is not a dead issue to me," he pleaded. "It is my very life."

"Who was it said that life was made up of trifles?" she asked.

"I don't know and don't care," he said ungraciously. "The only thing I can think of at this present moment is that tomorrow morning we shall be on land and that unless I can make you see matters from my point of view I shall lose you forever."

"One cannot lose what one does not possess," she suggested.

"But I did possess your love," he said eagerly. "You did not tell me so in words, but there were little things—that night on Ben Nevis, for instance."

The girl trembled. Even against the light gleamed shore of Staten Island she could see those misty heights; she could remember how she clung sobbing to Kelway, fearful of the danger.

He laid his hand upon hers. She shook it off, and there came the remembrance of another scene, a crowded railway station and Kelway, who had just left her, kissing a most attractive young woman as the train went on. This was the man she had given her heart to, a man who kissed others when they were as good as engaged.

"I wish," she said petulantly, "that you would not refer to that most unpleasant experience."

"I did not think it unpleasant. I am willing to be lost again—with you."

"Possibly your companion of the railway station might object," she sneered. "Have I not told you that the girl kissed me by mistake?" he asked.

"A very reasonable explanation," she commented.

"A man never does get credit when he tells the truth to a woman," commented Kelway. "Now, if I had said she was a cousin or something of that sort, would you have believed me?"

"Certainly not," was the prompt reply. "It is immaterial whether I believe you or not."

"It is not immaterial," he declared.

"I may have loved you," she said, "but whatever affection I felt for you is dead. I have put you out of my mind and heart. I have done with you forever, and if you were kind you would take yourself out of my life."

"Is that your wish?" he asked very softly. "Is there no hope?"

"None at all," was the decisive reply. "I never want to see you again."

For one brief instant his hand crashed hers as it lay upon the rail. Then he had raised his eyes and was gone. The light blinked and fluttered in an odd fashion. It might have been imagined that Miss Clovis was closing them through to the burning eyes had she not so bravely repeated: "I'm glad he's gone."

The customs officers invaded the cabin immediately after breakfast. The duty was not to be evaded.

"Friend Sir," said the white man, with a great show of fairness, "you may have the crown, and I'll take the turkey, or I'll take the turkey and you may have the crown."

"Huh," grunted the Indian. "Why, you no talk turkey to me?"

steamed slowly up the bay the passengers made out their declarations.

Kelway had nothing to declare and stood on the deck watching the shipping, and not even when Miss Clovis passed did he take his eyes from the water. And, strange to say, Miss Clovis resented this literal compliance with her request.

She went to her stateroom, and Kelway did not see her again until she came to her trunk under the C's. He was sitting upon his own steamer trunk under the K's waiting for an inspector, and by the arrangement of the letters he was right beside Miss Clovis.

It was a very rude thing to do, but he watched as the inspector, suffering from an intermittent burst of official energy, dug down to the very bottom of her trunk.

On the top of the tray was a framed picture of himself, with a bit of leather inside the glass. Miss Clovis sprang to the tray, but Kelway had seen. He came forward.

"I am going back on the steamer tomorrow," he said to her.

"Why?" she asked as the blushes spread over her face.

"Since you do care after all I am going to get a sworn statement from that girl, the picture of the brother of hers she mistook me for, and his declaration that he was expected to arrive on the train by which I traveled."

"It is not necessary," she said softly.

"I found out after you left me last night that it was all right."

"Who could have told you?" he cried wonderingly.

Not even the customs officer heard the whispered "My heart," but Kelway was content.

"To think that I should not have spoken if that meddling customs inspector had not shown me that you still loved me," he cried wonderingly. "Unless I had seen that frame I should have had no hope."

The inspector still wonders why that ten dollar bill was turned into his hand.

For Pleasant Dreams.

"It's not everybody I'd put to sleep in this room," said Mrs. J. to the fastidious and extremely nervous young minister who was spending the night with the family. "This room is full of sacred associations to me," she went on. "My first husband died in that bed, with his head right on those very pillows, and Mr. J. died sitting right in that corner. Sometimes when I come into the room in the dark I think I can see him sitting there still. My own father died lying right on that sofa under the window. Poor pa! He was a spiritualist, and he always said he'd appear in this room again after he died, and sometimes I'm foolish enough to look for him. If you should see anything of him tonight you'd better not tell me, for it would be a sign to me that there is something in spiritualism, and I'd hate to think that. My son by my first husband fell dead with heart disease right where you stand. He was a doctor, and there's two whole skeletons in that closet that belonged to him and half a dozen skulls in that lower drawer. Well, good night and pleasant dreams."—Tit Bits.

An Astute Lion.

A young lieutenant during an African campaign came one day upon a badly crippled lion. The great brute limped over the tawny sand on three paws, holding its fourth paw in the air. And every now and then, with a kind of groan, it would pause and lick the injured paw. When the lion saw the young lieutenant it came slowly toward him. He stood his ground, rifle in hand. But the beast meant no harm. It drew close to him. It rubbed against him with soft feline paws. It extended its hurt paw. The lieutenant examined the paw and found that there was a large thorn in it. He extracted the thorn. The lion roaring with pain, and he bound up the wound with his handkerchief. Then, with every manifestation of relief and gratitude, the animal withdrew. But it remembered its benefactor. It was grateful. And in a practical way it rewarded the young man. The lion ran over the regiment's list of officers and ate all who were the lieutenant's superiors in rank. Thus, in a few weeks, the young man, thanks to the astute animal, became a colonel.

Talk Turkey.

A man who makes it his business as well as his pastime to hear every public speech he can said the other day:

"Public speakers and campaign orators do not always have time or occasion to explain phrases used in 'driving home' arguments. They must necessarily depend upon their audiences to see the point through apt applications of such phrases. I have one in mind—to talk turkey. It would not always do to explain that the origin of this is as follows:

"Two men, an Indian and a white man, agreed to hunt together for a day and to divide the spoils. When the time came there was no difficulty in apportioning the smaller birds and animals, one of a kind to each. At last they reached the last pair, a crow and a turkey."

"Now," said the white man, with a great show of fairness, "you may have the crow, and I'll take the turkey, or I'll take the turkey and you may have the crow."

"Huh," grunted the Indian. "Why, you no talk turkey to me?"

SUBMARINE SIGNALS

THEIR APPLICATION TO INCREASING THE SAFETY OF NAVIGATION.

Value of the System Both For the Merchant Marine and For Warships. By Its Use the Latter Are Able to Detect Approach of Torpedo Boats.

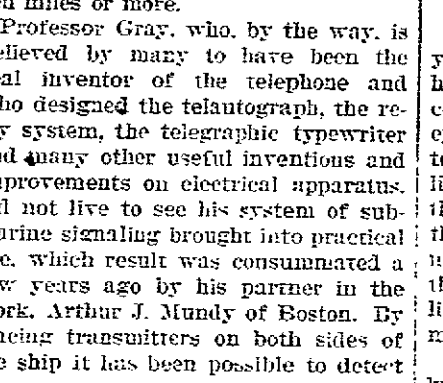

The success of the recently invented system of submarine signaling has been such that the Cunard line has determined to place it on all of its ships. The Lucania was equipped with the signaling apparatus a short time ago, and her captain on landing in New York a few days since said: "Going into Liverpool we got the first signal from a lighthouse ten miles away. The Lucania signals were also successful with the lights on this side." The system has been tested with remarkable success on the steamships of the North German Lloyd line and on many coastwise steamers. An officer of the United States navy has pronounced it "the most valuable aid to navigation that the world has ever seen." In addition to its value to merchant ships, it is destined to prove important in naval warfare, for it has been found that the system can be applied to great advantage in enabling battleships and other armed vessels to detect the approach of torpedo boats.

LIGHTSHIP WITH SUBMARINE BELL.

On merchant ships the submarine signaling apparatus is used for the purpose of detecting distant lighthouse bells and thus avoiding reefs and dangerous coasts. Water is an excellent medium for the transmission of sound. It carries it much more clearly than air and to greater distances. In water sound travels nearly four times as fast as in air. It was the late Elissa Gray who conceived the idea of utilizing these facts to warn vessels in storms and fogs. By letting down into the water a specially constructed transmitter similar to that of the telephone, only possessing more "ears," and by connecting this transmitter with an ordinary telephone receiver on the deck of a ship it was found possible to hear a bell under water for a distance of ten miles or more.

Professor Gray, who, by the way, is believed by many to have been the real inventor of the telephone and who designed the telautograph, the relay system, the telegraphic typewriter and many other useful inventions and improvements on electrical apparatus, did not live to see his system of submarine signaling brought into practical use, which result was consummated a few years ago by his partner in the work, Arthur J. Mundy of Boston. By placing transmitters on both sides of the ship it has been possible to detect not only the direction, but the approximate distance and character, of the sounds.

It is interesting to note in this connection that the savages of the African coast have long utilized this principle, by signaling to each other through instruments placed in the edge of the water.

Professor Gray and Mr. Mundy discovered that sound easily passed through the hull of a ship, so that in the later experiments the transmitters have been placed inside the vessels, thus protecting them from the water and the possibility of accident.

Last year the United States government conceived that the system of submarine signaling could be utilized by battleships and other naval vessels as well as by the merchant marine. Tests were made, and while they were out short by the disabling of the submarine craft employed, enough was demonstrated to make certain not only that an approaching submarine boat can be heard, but that its direction and distance can be clearly determined.

The submarine torpedo boat is now recognized as a grave danger to modern war vessels, a danger all the greater for the reason that there have been no adequate means of detecting the hidden foe. There is a large class of Russian boats, made up of small submarines, the possession of which is the crafty Japanese kept secret from the world. If the Russians had not possessed the submarine signaling apparatus, they could not have detected the approach of the Japanese fleet in the Russo-Japanese war.

Ambitious.

SHE is what you would call ambitious. Her hair is white as snow and small.

Mouth like a cherry.

Hair, a great heap of gold; Brown, of a clear mold; Eyes that love secrets hold, Twinkling and merry.

Happy she is no doubt; Nothing to fret about Since her going out— She is only twenty.

Amidst, she is four or five; Loves and games to drive, Money—dear money—

Papa has plenty;

Jewels, she fairly glows; Gowns, for each hour that goes; Clothes, too, of the newest know;

How many she wastes! Every new stock of hats—Flamboyant, ditto or flat, Think of the dollars that This little girl wastes!

Phit! I confess it. She Sometimes will put with me When there is no to see.

What could be better? In love all things are fair; I shall flirt with a dare And be a millionaire.

Linked.

And now that the knot is tied I pronounce you man and wife.

Decided Slump.

The great man was disturbed in mind.

"Henry," he said to his private secretary, "have I done anything unpopular lately?"

"Not that I am aware of, senator," responded that functionary.

"Does there seem to be any prejudice taking shape in the public mind against me?"

"I know of none."

"Am I spoken of in a sneering manner by the public prints?"

"Not so far as I have observed. Why are you asking me these questions, senator?"

"Because, Henry," said the great man, "I am convinced that unfriendly influences are at work. You know there is a brand of five cent cigars named for me, I presume?"

"Yes, sir."

"Well, they are selling them now two for five cents."—Chicago Tribune.

A Wise Child.

"I have a precocious nephew, four years of age, who is quite a student of human nature," he remarked.

"Of course all children are prodigies in the eyes of their fond parents, but listen to this about my nephew: He has a little playmate about his own age, and the other day he induced the other little fellow to ask his mother for a needle. I don't know what he wanted the needle for, but he wanted it."

"Go and ask her again," said this knowing nephew of mine.

"The other little fellow made another appeal, but came back saying it was no use, his mother wouldn't give him the needle."

"Of course she will," persisted the nephew. "Say, you just holler and holler and holler, and she'll give it to you, all right!"—San Francisco Chronicle.

He Was It.

"I feel quite lost tonight. Forgot to bring my new glasses. Who is that overdressed woman by the piano?"

"Eh? That's my wife."

"Beg pardon. And who is the scrawny girl in blue standing by her?"

"That's my daughter."

"By Jove, how stupid! And tell me, please, who is that gawky looking fellow with the big ears who is standing just opposite to us?"

"That's your own reflection in the mirror, you idiot!"—London Tit-Bits.

CAUGHT BY THE GRIP-- RELEASED BY PE-RU-NA.

"The World of Medicine Recognizes Grip as Epidemic Catarrh."—Medical Talk.

LaGrippe Is Epidemic Catarrh.

IT spares no class or nationality. The cultured and the ignorant, the aristocrat and the pauper, the masses and the classes are alike subject to la grippe. None are exempt—all are liable.

Grip is well named. The original French term, la grippe, has been shortened by the busy American to read "grip."

Without intending to do so, a new word has been coined that exactly describes the case. As if some hideous giant with awful grip had clutched us in its fatal clasp.

Men, women, children, whole towns and cities are caught in the baneful grip of a terrible monster.

Have you the grip? Or, rather, has the grip got you? If so, read the following letters.

These testimonials speak for themselves as to the efficacy of Peruna in cases of la grippe or its after-effects:

Saved by Pe-ru-na.

Hon. James R. Guill is one of the oldest and most esteemed men of Omaha, Neb. He has done much to make it what it is, serving on public boards a number of times. He endorses Peruna in the following words:

"I am 65 years old, am hale and hearty and Peruna has helped me attain it. Two years ago I had la grippe—my life was in danger. Peruna saved me."—J. R. Guill.

A Relative of Abraham Lincoln.

Mr. Silas S. Lincoln, who resides at 913 I street, N. W., Washington, D. C., has the honor of being third cousin to Abraham Lincoln. He writes:

"I had la grippe five times before using your medicine. Four years ago I began the use of Peruna, since which time I have not been troubled with that disease."

"I can now do as much work at my desk as I ever could in my life. I have gained more than ten pounds in weight."—S. S. Lincoln.

Pe-ru-na Not Only Cured La Grippe but Benefited the Whole System.

Miss Alice M. Dressler, 1333 N. Bryant Ave., Minneapolis, Minn., writes:

"Last spring I suffered from la grippe and was partially cured, but the bad after-effects remained through the summer and somehow I did not get strong as I was before."

"One of my college friends who was visiting me asked me try Peruna and I did so and found it all and more than I had expected."

"It not only cured me of the catarrh but restored me to perfect health, and built up the entire system."—Alice M. Dressler.

Address Dr. S. B. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, Ohio.

A Southern Judge Cured.

Judge Horatio J. Goss, Hartwell, Ga., writes:

"Some five or six years ago I had a very severe spell of grip which left me with systemic catarrh."

"A friend advised me to try your Peruna

ANSWER FILED IN DIVORCE CASE

VAN VOORHIS DENIES THAT HE EVER STRUCK OR ILLTREATED HIS WIFE.

Dr. Smith Files Answer in Bank Suit. Realty Transfers—Notes Picked Up in Court House.

In the case of Della M. VonVoorhis against William E. Van Voorhis, suit for divorce and alimony, the plaintiff has filed his answer. He denies that he ever struck or ill treated his wife, or used threatening or abusive language toward her. He denies that she contributed $100 to the purchase of household goods, and says he never prevented her from removing her clothing or any portion of the household goods belonging to her, or that he intends to do so. He denies all the other allegations and asks that his wife's petition be dismissed. Smythe & Smythe, attorneys for the defendant.

Dr. Smith Files Answer. In the case of the Franklin Bank company against Dr. D. M. Smith and wife, the defendant, Dr. Smith, has filed his answer. He says that it is not true that he made a conveyance of the real estate described to Jennie C. Smith with intent to cheat and defraud his creditors, and denies that the conveyance was made without adequate consideration. He denies that he had not and did not retain other property sufficient to pay his debts, and says that he is not now insolvent. He says that he signed a note as surety for William T. Tracy, who is the principal on the note; that he received no part of the consideration in the note, all of which was well known to the plaintiff at the time of its execution. He further says that when the note became due, that Tracy made a payment on it, and that the plaintiff extended the time for its payment for one year without his knowledge; that at the expiration of the year Tracy made another payment, and from that time until the commencement of this suit, the plaintiff held the same for the accommodation of Tracy without his knowledge or consent, and that during all this time, from October 1, 1900, to within a short time prior to the commencement of this suit, plaintiff had in his possession large sums of money belonging to Tracy, out of which it could have secured payment on the note, and during all this time Tracy was solvent and was the owner of property sufficient to levy on an execution sufficient to satisfy the note. He says the note has not been paid owing entirely to the negligence of the plaintiff and asks that the petition of the plaintiff be dismissed.

In the case of the Franklin Bank company against Dr. D. M. Smith, William Tracy and Frank G. Warden, the defendant, Dr. D. M. Smith, has filed his answer, which is substantially the same as the above. Smythe & Smythe, attorneys.

Fined For Assault. Willis Harter, a well known resident of Fredonia, this county, was arrested at his home in that place by Constable Brooke on a warrant issued by Squire Lee S. Lake at the instance of Charles T. Pimm, who charged him with making an assault on him. Harter was taken before Squire Lake, entered a plea of guilty to the charge and was fined $1 and the costs, amounting in all to $7.20, which he paid and was discharged from custody.

Real Estate Transfers. J. M. Croftinger and wife to W. D. McClintock, real estate in Bennington township, $3000.

Court Notes. The will of Sarah A. Ward, deceased of Pataskala, has been filed. The will of Joseph Stewart, deceased, has been probated. And Mary C. Stewart has been appointed executrix. The will of Thomas Raftery, deceased, has been probated and Attorney James R. Fitzgibbon has been appointed administrator with the will annexed.

Matilda Mount has been appointed guardian of Fern, Dale, Richard and Harold Mount.

Wm. C. Snelling has been appointed guardian of Walter, Bertha, Della, Nellie and Randall Snelling.

Deafness is caused by an inflammation of the mucous lining of the Eustachian tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. KERR CAUGHT GETTING AWAY WITH WHOLE LOAD OF IT, SAY POLICE.

If Value of Pig Iron Is $35 or More a Charge of Grand Larceny Will be Preferred.

Stealing a wagon load of pig iron was the task which was undertaken by one John Kerr, a Newark man, who failed in his purpose and, unfortunately for him, became entangled with the law. His efforts are now being centered on getting out of the difficulty as expeditiously as possible.

The story given out by the police says that Kerr went to the Newark Steel company's plant, west of the city, loaded up a wagon with iron "pigs" and was making good his escape when he was collared by the law. Patrolman "Doc" Brooke first learned of the bold theft and hunted up Patrolman Daily, who assisted him in making the arrest.

Kerr will now have to stand trial for the offense, which, if the quantity was sufficient to make it grand larceny, will prove a serious crime.

OFFICERS COMING TO RIFLE RANGE

DICK, McMAKIN, SPEAKS AND OTHERS WILL BE HERE DURING WEEK.

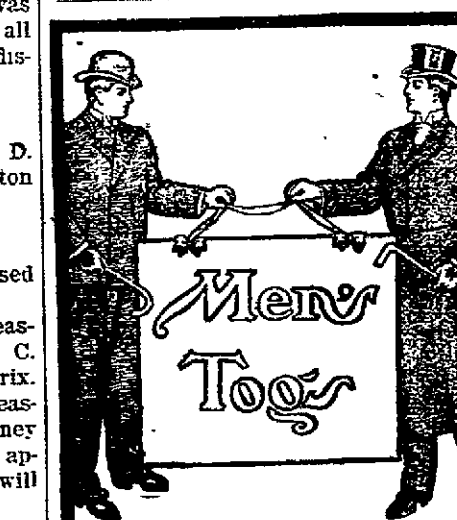

Some Speculation on Successor to Adjutant General Critchfield Named by Gov. Pattison.

United States Senator Charles W. Dick, who is also division commander of the Ohio National Guard, General W. V. McMakin of Toledo, commander of the First Brigade, General John C. Speaks of Columbus, commander of the Second Brigade, with their staffs, will be in Newark sometime next week and will spend several days in target practice at the state rifle range, west of the city.

It was intended to hold the shoot this week and all the tents, camp luggage, guns and ammunition were received by Lieutenant George Henry, superintendent of the grounds, who later received a telephone message that on account of the election General Dick could not come this week.

Adjutant General Critchfield and staff will also participate in the competition. The guns to be used are of a new pattern and the ammunition is also new. The purpose of the shoot rather than being competitive will be to try out the new arms and ammunition.

Local guardsmen are speculating on the successor of Adjutant General Critchfield. The office is appointive, and of course, it goes without saying that Governor Pattison will appoint one of the three Democratic colonels. Those mentioned are C. U. Weybrecht of the Eighth, Lloyd Howard of the Sixth, and Col. Milliken of Cincinnati.

HE WAS EXCUSED

One of the judges at last Tuesday's election in Newark was called to serve on a jury Friday, but he begged to be excused.

"Upon what ground to you ask for excuse?" inquired the court. "Because I am an election officer, your honor. Last Tuesday I put in a full day of 25 hours in Precinct — of the — ward, and think I am entitled to relief from jury duty."

He was excused. All orders for poultry, dressed or alive, will be delivered by the Newark Poultry company, 255 West Main st. N. Lohrman, agent. It*

IS MAN HERB O. BARBER'S FATHER?

STRANGER ACTING QUEERLY AND GIVING THAT NAME APPEARS HERE.

Visits Probate Court in Dazed Condition and Then Mysteriously Disappears.

Saturday a well appearing man, past the prime of life, called at Judge Irvine's office. He seemed in a dazed condition and had no apparent object in calling. After remaining seated for some time his queer actions attracted the attention of Judge Irvine, who tried to learn something about the man. The stranger said that his name was Nathan H. Barber and that on October 30 he had left Cambridge for Chicago, where he remained for a few days. He said he had been in Newark several days, but did not know how long. He also said that he was the father of H. O. Barber one of the Cambridge bank wreckers. Before the judge knew it the man left the office and he has not since been seen.

Knight of the Cream Jug

By Robert Jermain Cole

Copyright, 1905, by Robert Jermain Cole

"May I trouble you to pass me the cream?" Miss Brunel asked. Mr. Slade responded in a surprisingly literal fashion. Instead of passing the jug he dropped it, whereupon the ridiculous thing broke, and the cream, out of prison, ran toward Miss Brunel of its own accord.

Mr. Slade begged a thousand pardons all at once. The young woman gave him one, which was so comfortingly bestowed that he forgot all about the other 999 he had asked for.

Peter Slade was forever smashing whatever he came near.

"The only thing I don't break is a heart," he told the girl.

"How can you be sure about that?" she queried gravely.

"Nobody has trusted me with one yet," Peter answered.

The two were old table comrades at the boarding house. They never met anywhere else. Miss Brunel spent nearly every evening in the city library where she worked, and Slade crossed the Brooklyn bridge every Saturday night to stay over Sunday with his married sister. Nevertheless, they had become far better friends over the roast beef and coffee than a long course of fashionable entertainments could have made them.

They had come to feel very much alone together, for there was nobody else at the table that either of them cared for. Peter's chair was next to Miss Brunel's. The man across the table devoured his newspaper when he wasn't eating bread and butter.

The old lady next to Miss Brunel was deaf, and the man next to Peter understood only one word of English. Nobody could find out what that word was, but the foreigner used it on all occasions with such beautiful explanatory gestures that it did very well.

So, isolated, Peter had no fear of saying whatever he pleased except the fear inspired by Miss Brunel's serious gray eyes. He could not imagine anything that would make him so unhappy as to have those eyes look upon him with cold disapproval. They never had yet. He had fallen in love with her the day he knocked over the cut glass vase, which fell upon a salt-cellar and snapped in two. Everybody else either appeared shocked or books, for my part. What is the last story you have read?"

"I have just gone back to Scott for a breath of fresh air," said Miss Brunel. "You see, we have to do a certain amount of skimming over current literature to help the readers pick out books in the library. There has been a wave of morbid stuff, stories about foolish folks that have nothing to do but sit around the house and talk over their feelings. Scott rests my mind after such reading."

"He's the one that tells about knights and fighting, isn't he?" asked Peter. "When you come to think about it, we are a long way from all that. Here we are in a prosaic boarding house, you a quiet librarian and I a common, ordinary shipping clerk."

"I am not so sure of that," said Miss Brunel, with a whimsical smile. "The chief thing those old heroes did was to smash each other's heads. You profess to be a great breaker of china. Suppose we call you the knight of the cream jug. That's not a bad title."

"Peter Slade, K. C. J. Very good. But you know they always call knights by their first names. So you can call me Sir Peter, and never mind about the sir."

Again the ruby light shone through the girl's cheeks. She did not reply, and Slade went on speaking. His voice fell to a more serious depth of tone.

"I'll tell you one thing those old knights could not do, Miss Brunel. They could not love better than we can. This may be a strange place to say it, but I'm not much of a talker, and somehow I can tell you best right where I am used to seeing you. When you sit here beside me I wouldn't go back and change places with any old duke or king in the lot. If you would give me your heart to take care of I swear to you I would never break it."

They had both forgotten the deaf lady and the man with the newspaper and the rest.

"Perhaps you don't know me enough to trust me yet. Only give me a chance to win you," he pleaded.

There was a long silence. It was the girl who first remembered where they were. She glanced around the table, then spoke in, as matter of fact a tone as possible.

"Miss Bridge always goes to the library with me. Her cousin usually calls for her. If you are very brave, Sir Peter, you might—"

"Oh, may I come for you?"

Peter's tone was so full of excitement that the landlady looked apprehensively from the far end of the table. But he did not break any more china. He only turned over two chairs when he rose to let Miss Brunel pass out. Those chairs, unlike the girl, were made for a boarding house existence.

Gentry's Woes.

Gentry has not been married very long. He is supposed to be delightfully happy. Therefore when Phillipson overtook him on the way to the station the other morning and observed his downcast face he wondered.

"I don't know what to do!" Gentry exclaimed at length. "My wife is a splendid cook—why, I never saw anything like it! And she works hard trying to get me a sustaining breakfast. That's what she calls it, and heaven knows she's right. Why, this morning she had fruit, breakfast food, steak and fried potatoes, eggs and pancakes. And you know—Gentry's tone grew tragic—"in all my life I've never been used to taking anything but coffee and toast in the morning—don't want anything else. And I have to eat so much now that I'm nearly dead!"

"But why don't you tell her?" asked Phillipson. "Or why don't you refuse to eat?"

"That's the whole trouble," Gentry confessed sadly. "If I didn't eat everything and all of it she'd think the stuff wasn't cooked right and it would hurt her feelings. If I asked her to cut down the food supply in the morning I'm afraid she'd think I was stingy—and I couldn't stand that! What'll I do?"

The heartless Phillipson frowned. "The best thing I can advise," he called as he boarded the smoker, "is a dyspepsia cure!"—Chicago News.

Fire Damp.

"Fire damp" and "after damp" words brought into terrible prominence in many disasters in mines, preserve the older English sense of "damp"—vapor, and especially noxious vapor. Precisely where the word came from philology does not know, but the earliest instance of its use quoted by Dr. Murray's dictionary is Caxton's (1480)—"after the dragon shal come a goot, and ther shal come out of his nosterl a damp that shal broken longer and grete deth of peple." Bacon is one of the writers of his time who speak of the "damps" of mines. "Damp" gradually came to be applied to visible vapors, such as evening mists, and the transition to the sense of moisture is obvious. But in "damping down" a furnace one finds a relic of the verb "damp" in the sense of "suffocate."

Music as Medicine.

Place the tips of the first, second and third fingers of your right hand on the artery that runs along the main bone of your left arm (where the doctor usually feels your pulse) and sing a tune the time of which is the same as the rhythm of your pulse (the last time I tried this on myself the first four or five pulsations I felt instantly suggested "March On, Christian Soldier"); then change abruptly to a slow tune—say, "My Country, 'Tis of Thee," rendered andante religioso—and, lastly, burst out into the liveliest "Yankee Doodle" you can sing, and if you carefully observe your pulse at the end of each performance you will notice that the action of your heart has been affected in every case by the tempo of the music you have sung—Philadelphia Inquirer.

"YOU CAN CALL ME SIR PETER AND NEVER MIND ABOUT THE SIR."

tried too obviously not to notice the accident or laughed unpleasantly. Miss Brunel had looked Peter straight in the eye with a frank and friendly curiosity that said as plainly as words:

"I wonder if you are as interesting as you are awkward?"

He took courage from that look, and thereafter talked with her about many things besides the weather. She listened to his confidences sympathetically, but she gave him none in return.

It was after months of these dinner talks that the cream jug tragedy befell. When the wreckage had been carried from the stage—that is, the dinner table—Peter exclaimed with a burst of feeling:

"I wish I could break down that fine reserve of yours as easily as I can break china. You let me talk on and on, but you never tell me anything about yourself."

Miss Brunel's cheeks, whose delicate skin was as translucent as Venetian glass, filled slowly with color.

"I have nothing to tell," she said in a low voice.

"That is impossible," insisted Peter. "Every man, woman and child on earth has a story. But forgive me—perhaps I am not fit to hear yours. I was impudent to ask."

"Don't think that," the girl protested. "I really mean it. All the life I have lived worth telling about has been in the books I have read. Nothing ever has happened to me, so I have to be content to enjoy and suffer with the men and women who are dead or never lived except in a poet's brain."

"Well, you need not be very unhappy over that," said Peter. "Yours is a case where no news is good news. I could tell you a lot of things that you may be very glad did not happen to you. I have lived a rather knock-about kind of a life, and the idea of a little quiet appeals to me. I'd like to know more about the people in the

AMUSEMENTS

"Eben Holden," a dramatization by Edward E. Rose of Irving Bacheller's famous and widely read novel, will be presented at the Auditorium tonight, with that clever character actor Henry Horton as "Uncle Eb," supported by a specially engaged company including Miss Louise Hardenburgh, a pretty and clever young leading lady. A new and complete scenic production has been provided for the play by Mr. Horton's manager, Mr. L. R. Willard, and a dramatic treat is in store for all who attend. The play possesses the heart interest and homely qualities of "Shore Acres" and the "Old Homestead," and is fully entitled to rank along with the older plays of its class. There are moments of tense interest in the play and the pathos is so cleverly blended with the humor that a tear alternates every second with a hearty laugh.

ISLE OF BONG BONG.

The critical play goes who contends that there is nothing new under the sun especially in the field of light opera, will do well to visit "The Isle of Bong Bong" at the Auditorium Monday evening. This magnificent operatic extravaganza is by far the most ambitious production ever launched under the B. C. Whitney banner. With an all star cast of principals, including John W. Ransome of "Prince of Plisen" fame, Alice Yorke, whose emphatic success in the "Isle of Spice" will be favorably remembered, also Anna Boyd, Edith Depew, John W. Hendricks, Walter Ware, Charles Halgh,

THE LITTLE DUCHESS.

Milton and Sargent Aborn are presenting Elsie Janis in "The Little Duchess," which comes to the Auditorium next Wednesday. The star will be remembered as the principal feature of a number of musical companies, but not until last summer did she make her bow on Broadway, where she was received with wild acclaim. No more emphatic hit has been scored in years. For three months she was the reigning favorite of the talented company at the Wistaria Grove, atop the New York and Criterion theatres. Pages have been written about her. No publication that devotes space to theatricals has been without her photographs. From simply being well known in vaudeville, she has jumped into recognition as the most popular mimic and comedienne on the stage. Offers galore have come to this little miss, but she has stuck to "The Little Duchess" and will be seen here with her original company and the superb Anna Held production, which was the sartorial and scenic marvel of its day, and is a most brilliant example of managerial extravagance. Sets on sale Saturday.

MUMMY AND HUMMING BIRD.

Manager Jules Murry owns half a score of excellent theatrical attractions, but for the portrayal of "The Mummy and the Humming Bird," the greatest success of last season, he assembles the organization specially formed, and known as "Jules Murry's Own Company," as being peculiarly worthy to properly present this charming comedy. The company is headed by William A. Whitecar, and comprises a supporting cast each of whom was selected from the large corps of actors in Mr. Murry's employ by reason of individual fitness for the role assigned. It is claimed therefore, that the performance of "The Mummy and the Humming Bird" soon to be given here by this organization, will be one of the most enjoyable in every respect that can be expected during the dramatic season.

MAYOR OF TOKIO.

Richard Carle, after an uninterrupted Chicago run of 110 performances in "The Mayor of Tokio," will appear at the Auditorium Tuesday, Nov. 21. Of all the musical stars and plays that appeared in Chicago during the past season, Richard Carle in his farcical opera, "The Mayor of Tokio," achieved the record for the longest consecutive run. His nearest competitors were Lew Fields in "It Happened in Northland," and George Cohan in "Little Johnny Jones." Mr. Carle's consecutive run exceeded Mr. Fields' by a week and Mr. Cohan's by a fortnight.

Saved by Dynamite.

Sometimes a flaming city is saved by dynamiting a space that the fire can't cross. Sometimes, a cough hangs on so long you feel as if nothing but dynamite would cure it. Z. T. Gray, of Calhoun, Ga., writes: "My wife had a very aggravated cough, which kept her awake nights. Two physicians could not help her; so she took Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds, which eased her cough, gave her sleep, and finally cured her." Strictly scientific cure for bronchitis and La Grippe. At Hall's Drug Store, price 50c and $1.00; guaranteed. Trial bottle free.

Mother's Friend

To be beautiful is to be loved by all. If there lives the woman who is indifferent to this she is yet to be heard of. Yet from time immemorial society has recognized what they thought to be a detriment in the way of such a realization. The bearing of children has meant to them the marring of physical beauty of figure, without which beauty of face would be of little account. Nothing could be more remote from truth than this; childbirth is purely a natural phenomenon, accompanied by pain, to be sure, but if properly managed no more harmful in its effects upon the human form than any other natural function.

MOTHER'S FRIEND

Is essential in the proper management of every case of labor; it relaxes and softens the abdominal muscles, thereby enabling them to sustain the stretching that they must undergo, and from this very fact it facilitates their return to normal proportions after childbirth, and it is obvious that pain must be greatly lessened from this very reason. It is a liniment, it is harmless, it is potent, it is priceless in its results. It is Mother's Friend. $1.50 per bottle at drug stores. Our book of priceless value sent free to all women.

ADVOCATE PATTERNS FROM THE LATEST NEW YORK FASHIONS.

5177 FANCY BLOUSE WITH BOLERO EFFECT, 32 TO 40 BUST.
FANCY BLOUSE WITH BOLERO EFFECT—5177.

The fancy blouse has become as completely an established necessity as the plain shirt waist and the demand for new and attractive designs is very rarely ceases. Illustrated is a charming one that gives an exceedingly dressy and quite elaborate effect while in reality it is simple in the extreme. As shown it is made of one of the pretty figured lousines with trimming of Valenciennes lace and matches the skirt but the model also is a most desirable one for the separate waist, without which no woman can be content, and is available for all the pretty waistings of the season as well as for materials suited to entire gowns. White taffeta, lousine and messaline are special favorites for odd waists of the sort and are exceedingly attractive trimmed with either Valenciennes or Cluny lace, but lingerie models also will be worn throughout the season and the design is adapted to them as well as to the silk and wool materials, while again such light weight wools as batiste and challie are being made in lingerie style.

The waist is made with a fitted lining, which can be used or omitted as material renders desirable, and itself consists of the front and the back. The front is laid in narrow tucks at the center and both the front and the back are laid in wider tucks at the shoulders, which are stitched to yoke depth and provide fullness below. The trimming is applied over the waist, giving a jacket effect, and when liked the material beneath the insertion can be cut away. The sleeves are the well liked ones which consist of deep cuffs with full upper portions.

The quantity of material required for the medium size is 3 3/4 yards 21, 3 1/2 yards 27 or 1 7/8 yards 44 inches wide with 4 3/4 yards of insertion and 4 1/2 yards of edging to trim as illustrated.

The pattern 5177 is cut in sizes for a 32, 34, 36, 38 and 40 inch bust measure.

Bowser's Plot Again Fails

Makes Another Attempt to Get Rid of the Family Cat, but Without Success.

HIRES, MAN TO LOSE IT

Feline Escapes, However, and Returns Home—Discloses Conspiracy to Mr. B's Better Half.

[Copyright, 1905, by R. B. McClure.]

It has been a matter of fact for the past year that Mr. Bowser has been down on the Bowser cat. His principal reason for his feelings against the feline is that the cat always seemed to take Mrs. Bowser's part against him. He has seemed to weep when Mrs. Bowser has got the worst of a family argument and to giggle and gurgie when Mr. Bowser has come out of the little end of the horn.

A year ago the grocer's boy was bribed to take the feline off to the suburbs during the temporary absence of Mrs. Bowser, but he made his escape from the wagon and returned to the comforts of home almost before he was missed. Mr. Bowser silently gnashed his teeth over his failure, but said nothing and waited. The day after he came home about the middle of the afternoon to find that Mrs. Bowser was downtown shopping. The cook had also gone out, and the family cat lay in the sunshine by the back door and dreamed of no trachery.

"I NO SPEAK TO ANY WOMAN."

"By the living jingo, but my time has come," whispered Mr. Bowser to himself as he saw the situation. "Old yaller eyes will disappear off the face of the earth and be seen no more!"

He decided that neither the grocer nor the butcher boy could be trusted to carry out a tragedy, and, walking out to the gate, he waited for the right party to come along. The R. P. soon drove into view. He was an Italian looking for work, and he at once tackled the would-be assassin for a job of cutting the grass in the front yard.

"The grass don't need cutting," was the reply, "but I can put you in the way of earning half a dollar just the same. You know what a cat is, don't you?"

"I see plenty a cat," was the reply. "Ever see a yaller eyed old tomcat?" "Alla kinda cat I see many times." "That's good. Well, I've got an old cat at the back door that is down on me. I want him taken far away—so blamed far that he'll die of old age before he can get back. Do you understand?"

"You want him lost?" "That's it. I ain't set on your killing him, but you must take him at least five miles away. Take him away in an empty flour sack and dodge and twist all you can. I want him so confused when you pour him out of the sack that he'll head for Chicago or New Orleans. You can do the trick, can't you?"

"I take dat cat ten miles away," was the reply.

"Will you? Then I'll make it a dollar. Come on."

Accompanied by the stranger, Mr. Bowser entered the kitchen and passed through into the back yard. The cat had finished his nap and was stretching himself preparatory to a walk along the top of the fence.

"You dear, sweet nice old thing," said Mr. Bowser in a coaxing way. "Come here and see me. Come and be told how much I love you. Come, pussy. You look so suspiciously, but you are wrong. You have never had a better friend than this house than I am. Hold the bag ready, dago. Come, pussy."

The sight of the stranger and the bag had aroused the cat's suspicions, but Mr. Bowser's doct tones put them to sleep. He slowly approached with a seizing distance to find himself suddenly picked up and held tightly and to hear his master's voice exclaiming: "Old yaller eyes is trapped at last, and this time he's gone out!" All right, trot along with him. If you should meet a woman between here and the corner and she should ask you any questions, you shake your head and go on. There's a dollar.

"I no sick to no woman," said the first assistant assassin as he made his way out.

gone out to see if the Italian was lingering anywhere in sight, but as he was thinking of it Mrs. Bowser arrived.

"What! You home at this hour?" she asked.

"Yes, there was nothing doing at the office."

"Well, I bought this ribbon for the cat's neck, and you might find him and tie it on. He's probably in the back yard."

Mr. Bowser took the ribbon and went into the back yard, and it is needless to say that he didn't find the cat. He had been looking around for ten minutes when Mrs. Bowser came around and called and called and then said:

"I can't see where he can have gone to. This makes me think of the dream I had last night. I dreamed that some one carried him away, and as he went I could hear him calling and appealing to me to save his life."

"Fudge! He's probably asleep in the grass somewhere."

"And just as I was coming up in the street car I saw an Italian carrying something in a paper bag. Could he have got in here and stolen the cat?"

"Of course not. Cats go prowling long distances. Ours may be a mile away at this time, but he'll head for home about supper time."

"You wouldn't play any trick on him, would you?" asked Mrs. Bowser with something like accusation in her tones.

"I? I have something to do besides playing tricks on cats."

"You don't like him, you know."

"I don't care either way. What did you buy today?"

Mrs. Bowser put the cat out of her mind for ten minutes to discuss other things, but when the cook came home the subject was reopened.

"When I left the house he was sleeping at the back door like an innocent angel," said the cook in answer to a question. "He's a cat that never goes away from home in the afternoon, and if he's gone now some one must have had a hand in it."

"How long had you been home when I got here?" queried Mrs. Bowser of the red handed assassin.

"Ten minutes maybe."

"I can't get it out of my head that that Italian had our cat in that bag."

"Pooh! You are making a great fuss about an old cat."

"But I like him. I wouldn't have anything happen to that cat for a hundred dollars. I'm a good mind to put on my hat and go down the street and look for that Italian. He wasn't walking very fast."

"Oh let that Italian alone. You'd be a nice spectacle chasing a man around the streets, wouldn't you?"

"But our cat is lost."

"I don't believe it. He's liable to show up any minute."

Mr. Bowser's assertion was prophetic. He had just opened the front door to take a seat on the steps when a roaring, buzzing sound was heard up the street. He looked up and saw the lost cat coming. He had three or four dogs and five or six men and boys at his heels. Before he could fairly realize the situation the cat whisked through the open gate, up the steps and up the front stairs, and he was closely followed by the dogs.

"Hey, you!" shouted the man who had taken the feline away, "da catta getta away!"

"Well, go on; never mind."

"But what does he say about the cat?" asked Mrs. Bowser as she appeared on the steps.

"Da catta getta away. One dol to take him off. When I getta away he scratch me like—! I wanta another dol!"

"You go on!" shouted Mr. Bowser.

"Like—! da catta scratch me. I wanta one more dol!"

Mr. Bowser could do no less than rush down the steps and order the crowd out of the yard. They didn't go. Instead of going they pitched into him, and in a moment he was down and fighting for his life. Fortunately for him a policeman came along after he had had most of the clothes torn off his back and rescued him and drove the assailants along.

"Now, then," said Mrs. Bowser when the welshbone figure had limped up the steps and was gasping for breath. "I want to understand this matter. What about paying that man a dollar to take our cat away?"

"We woman!" shouted the assassin in reply, after two or three efforts. "You have at last driven me to the dead line! Not another word from you! You can take the 10 o'clock morning train for your mother's, and our lawyers will settle about the divorce and alimony!"

M QUAD

A LONG, LONG TIME.

"How long have you been after my daughter?"

"Er—evah since I lost me—er—job."

"The only defect I have is that you have had a telephone put into your house. Mrs. Wick's must find it a great comfort."

"Wick's? Yes, but she doesn't like it as well as she thought she would. You see, she's a little bit of a fussy half the time."

A Joke.

What is the best way to get rid of a headache? The best way is to get rid of the headache.

CONVALESCENT

Is Rus Jones After His Fifth Year of Suffering from Poisoning. Tells Remarkable Story.

The strange case of Rus Jones, of Letart, W. Va., a well known and respected citizen of that place, has proved the source of much gossip.

Jones' whole trouble arose from a simple case of catarrh, which in a short time poisoned his system and caused him no end of suffering and discomfort. The story is a long one and lack of space permits but a brief reproduction.

Suffice to say in Jones' own words that: "Weak and nervous from the poison that had crept over my entire system, I could no longer sleep or eat; I could find nothing that would relieve me and was despairing of even getting well again. I had read so much of the great cures effected by the wonderful Cooper Medicines that I resolved to try them. I shall never regret it for it is to them that I owe my recovery. Now my nerves are steady and I eat everything and sleep like a top. I am free from every trace of catarrh and two bottles of the wonderful Cooper's New Discovery did it."

Cooper's New Discovery and Quick Relief, the medicines that so miraculously cure Rheumatism, Catarrh, Deafness, Stomach and Kidney Trouble, Blood Diseases and Paralysis, cost one dollar per bottle and fifty cents per bottle respectively. They can be secured in this city only from Mr. Cooper's special agents,

ANSWER FILED IN BEVARD CASE

EXPENSES OF MRS. WERTZ' FUNERAL HAVE NOT BEEN PAID
IT IS ALLEGED.

Debts Amount to $2300 and Personal Estate Will Not Exceed $700. Shortage of $1600.

In the case of Rosa Bevard against Jackson Werts and others, who recently commenced proceedings in the Common Pleas court for partition of the property left by her mother, Mrs. Frances L. Werts, who was murdered at her home on Dry Creek, a short distance north of Newark last June, Charles E. Hoover, as administrator of the estate has filed his answer and cross petition. He says that the plaintiff is not entitled to a partition of the real estate for the reason that it came to her and the defendant, Jackson Werts, by descent from their mother, Frances L. Werts, deceased, subject to the dower estate of James Werts, husband of the deceased, and who is one of the defendants; that the debts of the estate have not been paid and also that the funeral expenses have not been paid, and that the personal property is wholly insufficient to pay the debts and funeral expenses.

For cross petition he says the debts, funeral expenses and costs of administration of the estate will equal or exceed the sum of $2300, and that the personal estate will not exceed $700 or $720, and that there will be a shortage of $1600 or more. He also says that Frances L. Werts died seized in fee simple of the estate described in the petition; that the defendant, James Werts is her widow, and is entitled to her dower in the estate; and that Rosa Bevard and Jackson Werts are the only children and sole heirs. The petitioner asks that an order of sale be issued to him by the court directing him to sell the property at either private or public sale, the same having been appraised. J. B. Jones, attorney.

SEATS RESERVED

For Y. M. C. A. Course of Entertainments—One Hundred Good Seats Are Not Yet to be Had.

About two hundred of the downtown seats in Taylor Hall were reserved last night for the Y. M. C. A. entertainment course in the very few minutes after the first number was drawn. This leaves but a few seats left for those who for any reason have delayed attending to the matter.

This year's course, which is an exceptionally strong one, will open next Thursday evening with the Royal Musical Orchestra, one of the finest musical organizations in the country. Then follow:

Adrian M. Newman, impersonator, Nov. 20.

Carl Roberts, Boston clown, Nov. 21.

Frank P. Robinson, Russian illusionist, Nov. 22.

FOR THE COOK.

An Inexpensive Homemade Kitchen Equipment

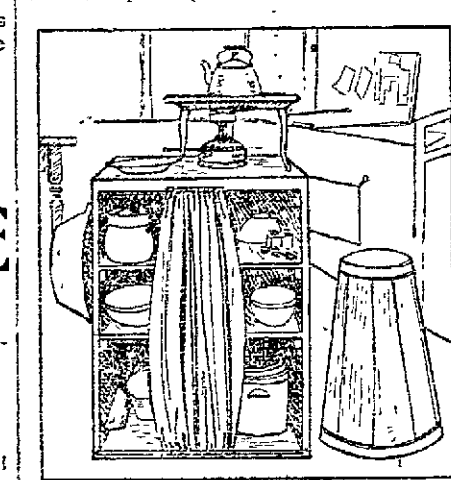

An interesting exhibition was recently given by the domestic science department of the Teachers' College of New York. One portion of it which attracted more attention than all the rest combined and consisted of an inexpensive and partially homemade kitchen equipment is commented upon by Louise E. Dew in Good Housekeeping as follows:

The object of this exhibit is to show what may be done for a poor school where limited funds are available for the purpose of teaching domestic science and where the pupils who attend the school are living in a penitentiary way.

The cupboard and table shown in this outfit are simple affairs and made of ordinary packing boxes. The shelves are made of the covers of the boxes and a mahogany stain is applied to the whole. The kitchen table is covered with zinc, which is securely tacked all about the top with zinc colored tacks. Brass rods are fastened across the top and bottom of both the table and the cupboard for brown linen curtains.

The zinc covering makes the table fireproof, as the small three burner alcohol or kerosene oil stove is obliged to sit on it, owing to limited space. Then, too, it is easily kept clean and is a convenient place to sit when paring the vegetables or preparing the meat.

An ordinary vegetable basket such as city hucksters use makes a good substantial and unique stool. Such a one, stained to match the table, is turned upside down beside it, ready for an occupant. This basket has the advantage of height and strength and serves its purpose admirably.

A hook on one side of the table is convenient for the dishpan, while a towel rack on the other side holds the fresh wiping towels. The back space is utilized for dishcloths. All the necessary cooking implements are within reach on the shelves, while beside the table stands the cupboard, with its supply of kitchen utensils which are not used so frequently.

While this homely equipment was shown for the benefit of the teacher, it need not be despised by the woman whose kitchen is small and whose means are limited. Packing boxes cost but a trifle, and it is an easy matter to transform them into cupboards. As to the housekeeper's tools, they will depend upon her means; but, fortunately, the day of heavy ironware is over, and if she can afford it she can sit by her table and cook in light aluminum dishes, which are a joy to possess.

Mrs. Henpeck—I read this morning about a man who was arrested ten minutes after his wedding and sent to prison for fifteen years. Isn't that awful?

Mr. Henpeck—Oh, I don't know. The law doesn't counsel him to take his wife to prison with him, does it?

Not Too Restful.
"The rest cure," said the pale faced man wearily, as he stopped to reply to the question of an inquisitive friend, "is not all my fancy painted in. Here is how it worked out in my case."

"At 1230 a. m. the nurse came to take my temperature, at 8 I had to take a bath and breathing exercise, then came medicine, after which followed breakfast, a visit from the medical physician, massage, a visit from my own doctor, a slight operation to test the purity of otherwise of my blood, more medicine, dinner, a visit from another patient, letters and tradesmen's bills, electrical treatment, rest tea, more medicine, another visit from the physician, a cold pack and a glass of milk."

"That's how the day passed. At 8 I was thoroughly exhausted and went to sleep, the first real sleep of the past year. I had known since morning, 'Rest cure, indeed!' And he passed out, and a good night's sleep.

When Margaret Ran Away

By COLIN S. COLLINS

Copyright, 1905, by R. B. McClure

"Lower twelve, right hand side," said the Pullman conductor as he pocketed the money and handed Merivale the punched ticket.

Vance Merivale picked up his suit case and made his way to his seat. It had been foolish not to have made a reservation in advance, but somehow he had not liked to. He wanted to wait the chances of fate until the last moment—and fate had been unkind.

Instead of the hoped for reconciliation with Margaret Ripley there had been a quarrel even more bitter than those which had gone before, and he had left her tearfully protesting that she would leave town and give up her career, rather than suffer from these scenes.

Merivale wanted her to give up her career because he had found she could not find time for love and business in her busy life, and he thought he needed her love more than she needed a career.

He had made his last appeal, and now he was on his way to Chicago to make a fresh start. He would leave the city to her, since he could not live there without her.

He dropped his bag into the seat and threw himself down. The car was crowded, and for a moment he did not recognize Margaret. Then his glance wandered across the aisle and encountered those blue eyes which had made such havoc with his heart.

Now, instead of being melting they were scornful, and something in her expression held him as he half rose to cross to her.

He made a violent pretense of reading, but it was pretense only, for across the pages as he turned them there flitted those angry eyes, and instead of sensing the words his brain rang with the echo of her last words to him: "I will leave town since I am not permitted to have peace here."

The dusk was falling before he had a chance to speak. The dining car had been put on and Margaret was among those who answered the first call. Vance, striding after her, met her in the vestibule between the two cars.

"Margie," he cried, "won't you let me speak to you?"

"Speak to me? Why should I let you speak to me when you have done this despicable thing?"

"What do you mean?" he gasped.

"What have I done that should be characterized as despicable?"

"Following me in this fashion!"

"Following?" he echoed blankly.

"Why, Margie, I made up my mind a week ago to this step. I wrote out to Chicago for a position, and I came to see you last night to say goodbye."

"Really?" she asked wistfully.

He drew a letter from his pocket and showed her the postmark four days old. "Here is Grigg's letter," he said simply, "an answer to mine."

She glanced at the opening line, "In reply to yours of last week," and handed it back with shining eyes.

"I thought," she said softly, "that you had found out that I was running away, and had followed me."

"And I was merely trying to give you the whole of New York," he laughed. "I think it was fate that brought us together."

"There are good and bad fates," she replied. "One of the latter will cause you to lose your dinner."

"What do I care for dinner?" he cried impatiently.

She showed her ears with her tiny fingers. "I don't listen to a word until you have come back from dinner," she declared.

"For one moment he clasped her hand in his and passed through to the dining car, with a better appetite than he had felt for a week."

He was at her side again in twenty minutes. "Now that I am fed and clothed in my right mind," he said, "do you mind explaining why you are running away with me?"

"I am not," she protested. "I was trying to run away from you."

"But a ridiculous," he laughed, "no be running away from each other together."

"No," she said decidedly. "I am going to run away."

"Why?" he begged. "Here we are both led for Chicago. Cannot you read the handwriting of fate in the adventure?"

"No," she said. "I cannot marry you, Vance. I admit that I love you, but we are always quarreling, and our married life would be short and miserable."

"Sweetheart," he pleaded, "cannot you understand that the quarrels have all been on the one topic? Remove the cause and we should be happy, dear."

"Happy," she scoffed—"happy when you demand that I shall give up all my hopes of a career to sink to the level of a commonplace kitchen drudge?"

"Not that," he corrected. "I simply ask you to give up your work on the paper and in your leisure do better and more ambitious work."

"I must begin at the bottom of the ladder," she defended.

"In the four years I have known you," he reminded, "you have been sitting on that same bottom rung, which in this case happens to be the woman's desk on the Home Topics. You are grinding your life away at this work and have neither time for better things nor even the time to be nice to the man you admit you love."

"But I must work," she cried.

"Certainly," he conceded, "but work to some effect. Don't drudge and grind until all life becomes a matter of copying recipes out of an old cookbook and heading them 'Dainty New Dishes for the Home.' That is what I object to."

"Vance," she said, "I have been unkind, haven't I?"

"Very," he said cheerfully.

"And if I say yes you will let me write?"

"Stories and things—at home," he agreed hopefully.

"I'll think about it," she said. "Now go and smoke."

Her eyes compelled him, and he went, leaving her to think.

When he returned, her berth had been made down, and a great wave of disappointment swept over Merivale. Had she sent him away merely to escape him—to be rid of him?

As he threw himself disconsolately into his seat the porter approached. "Lady in lower 'leven done asked me to call yo' 'tention to dis heah note," he said, pointing to a small white envelope tucked down between the plush cushions.

"Oh, all right, George," he said. The porter grinned knowingly.

Merivale tore open the envelope and read: "I had to say yes. This is an eloquent, not an escape."

"I say, George," called Merivale. "Tassie!"

"Here," and Merivale thrust the most substantial tip into the porter's hand that individual had received for months.

English House Gardens.
American children learn that London is the center of trade, with a dense population, and they grow up with the idea that it is a mart perpetually overhung with fog and smoke. To have a private residence in New York city is a luxury possible only to the rich, and none but a multimillionaire could live in a house with a garden.

When the American girl therefore went to have tea with some friends in moderate circumstances she was astonished to find them living in a large house, with a little garden in front and a spacious one in the rear. Tea was served in the garden.

Her mind reverted to a suburban house at home that had about as much land as this English one. The back yard was used as a drying place for clothes. The front yard was a smoothy clipped, flower bedded lawn kept for show, so open to the street that it was of no use to the family.

"No, it is not like home," said the American girl, wondering if every one in London had a garden or a terrace or a park.—London Telegraph.

A Patent Lawyer.
A lawyer who makes a specialty of patent business, no matter just where his office is located, was called to the further west in a case involving a mortgage on a farm. The preliminary hearing was before an old fashioned justice of the peace, who had no high regard for the ways of men from the city. At some point in the case the magistrate put in a few remarks, and the visiting lawyer collided with him. The discussion grew warm, and at last the magistrate, forgetting his dignity and his position, became personal.

"Who are you anyway?" he blurted out.

"Well," replied the lawyer, "I'm an attorney."

"Traps you are, but I never heard one talk like you do. What kind of a one are you?"

"I'm a patent attorney."

The magistrate rubbed his chin for thought.

"Well, all I've got to say is," he said slowly, "that when the patent expires I don't believe you can ever get it renewed again."

They Said "Guilty."

Of the queer notions sometimes entertained by the twelve "good men and true" in the jury box the following amusing story, recently told on the authority of the counsel who defended in a case of larceny, is, let us hope, a unique example. Recognizing in one of the jurymen the nephew of the prisoner, counsel thought "the old man" was safe to secure a verdict of acquittal, more particularly as the prosecution were only able to present an extremely weak case against him.

The judge summed up in the prisoner's favor. But the jury said "Guilty." Meeting the nephew in the street next morning, the lawyer rallied him upon giving a verdict against his uncle, especially as from the evidence it did not appear that he was guilty. "Well, no, sir; we didn't think as he was guilty, but we thought as 'ow a little improvement wouldn't do the old man no harm."—London Standard.

EXECUTOR'S

GRAND AUCTION SALE

Of land in tracts of one acre and up at Showman Heights

The old Showman Farm on the Newark & Granville Electric Road

Tuesday and Wednesday
November 14 and 15

at 1:30 p. m. each day.
SHOWMAN HEIGHTS

This beautiful tract of ground is situated three miles west of Newark, on the Newark and Granville Electric Road, just beyond the Avalon Addition, being the Showman Farm, so well and favorably known.

The property is now platted in tracts of various sizes from one acre up so that you can purchase any amount of land you wish from one acre to the entire farm of over 100 acres.

This is an executor's sale, to settle the estate, and as the estate must be settled at once every acre of ground must be sold regardless of the price making this an opportunity of a life-time for those wishing a few acres of land on the electric road at their own prices.

Showman Heights comprises both hill and level land, orchard and meadow. The hill commands the grandest and most magnificent view in Licking County, as from it can be seen all of Newark, Granville, Jacksonstown, Hebron, and all villages within a radius of ten miles. Being only 15 minutes car ride from the Courthouse, this is a perfectly ideal location for summer homes. The electric road is easily accessible from each tract as platted.

We have extended two roads through the farm, east and west, so that all tracts are either on the electric road or in close proximity to it. The orchard occupies much of the high ground so that in buying one of these magnificent view lots you also secure a few acres of one of the best and most widely known orchards in the county, each acre having 125 to 160 good, healthy peach and apple trees on it.

We shall sell this in such shape that anyone can acquire all they wish of the orchard land.

Terms Very Liberal

Ten per cent cash at time of sale. One-third of which the down payment forms a part, in three days, one-third in one year and the balance in two years, with interest on the deferred payments, or a discount on the last two-thirds for cash within three days.

Free Special Cars

for adults only, will leave the south side of the Courthouse promptly at 1 o'clock, returning after the sale.

Band Concert

on the square before the cars start and at the sale.

Free Presents

To those who attend these sales we shall give the beautiful lines of silverware, each valued at $600.00, now on exhibition in the windows of Rawlings Piano Store, and the City Drug Store. You do not have to buy a lot to get a present, but you must be at the sale. No presents given children or colored people.

The House and Barn

The Grand Old House and large barn will be sold with about ten acres of land.

The house is beautifully surrounded and well-shaded, contains ten large rooms and is right on the electric road. The barn is 90 x 35 feet, exclusive of all sheds and additions. Here is a grand old home for someone for just what you wish to pay.

NEWARK is growing most rapidly in this direction, so that all property along this car line is fast advancing in value making it the safest and surest investment possible to find. We shall take bids by the acre and the successful bidder can then take as many or as few acres as he wishes at the price bid per acre, so that everyone has had many opportunities to acquire country property in city lot parcels at city lot prices, but this is the first opportunity ever given the people of Newark to secure fertile well-located acreage on the electric road at acreage price. There is a gas line which passes the property so that you can have gas at once.

There are five large springs of pure water on the property affording the best possible water supply.

Every business and professional man in Newark who would like to have an ideal summer home with a magnificent view, purest water, abundant shade, plenty of the finest fruit and on the electric road within 15 minutes ride of the Courthouse, should investigate Showman Heights and attend this sale.

Every man who wishes to have a few acres of fertile garden land on the electric road at his own price should attend this sale.

Every man who wishes a few acres of the finest orchard in Licking County at his own price, should investigate Showman Heights and attend this sale.

Every person in Newark who wishes an absolutely safe and good paying investment should attend this sale for the land must be sold to settle the estate regardless of the price it brings.

Remember the Dates—Tuesday and Wednesday,
November 14 and 15 at 1:30 each day.
Free special cars leave the south side of the square promptly at 1 o'clock each day, returning after the sale.

SENIORS VISIT ALL PROFESSORS

BRONZE TABLET FOR THE SUGAR LOAF BOULDER HAS ARRIVED.

Phi Gams Entertain—Christian Endeavor Meeting—Granville Personal Items.

Granville, O., Nov. 11.—Friday evening that much talked of, very mysterious, wholly delightful and original Senior "stunt" took place, just where, can hardly be stated, as the places visited by this illustrious class were quite numerous. The members of the class were kept in ignorance as to the nature of the function by the committee on entertainment and before the evening was over all were satisfied as to the ability of the entertainment committee. Two hayracks conveyed the class to the homes of Professor's McKibben, Trask, C. W. Chamberlin, Williams, Goodell, Spencer, Caney, Hundley, Brumback, Colwell, Gilpatrick, Dr. Hunt, Herrick, Johnson, Chamberlin. In each case the entire party surprised the worthy professors by walking into their respective homes, leaving appropriate calling cards and their address in the form of a pennant of the class of 1906. In some cases the Professor in question was not found at home but it is quite needless to say that this class found always generous hospitality awaiting them.

Miss Barker, the dean of Shepardson college was sought in Burton Hall and not being found there was pursued up to the home of her sister, Mrs. Barker, on Pearl street, where she was found and where she very cordially greeted the class individually and collectively. After all these interesting moonlight calls had been made, the class repaired to the spacious reception room of the new dormitory where they spent the remainder of the evening most happily. This is the first occasion upon which the reception room of this hall has been opened, and it seemed quite appropriate that the Seniors should have the honor of holding the first social function here. A very appetizing and delicious lunch was served, after which a general good time was had by all, closing with the old fashioned, fun-inspiring Virginia reel. Altogether the affair was a complete success and thoroughly enjoyed.

The bronze tablet to be placed on the

"In grateful remembrance of the Licking Land Company, who came from Granville, Mass., and founded this town, in wilderness," Nov. 17, 1805."
"They builded better than they knew."
"To God in the glory for ever and ever."

Mr. M. P. Ashbrook, state secretary and treasurer of the State Association of Commercial Travellers, known as the Gideons, left for Dayton, Ohio, Saturday morning, where he will attend the institution of a new camp of Gideons at that place this evening. He was accompanied by his wife.

A number of Granville people are planning to see "Eben Holden" at the Newark Auditorium this evening.

Mr. and Mrs. B. C. James of Hillsboro, who have been visiting relatives here and in this vicinity for some days, have returned home.

The members of the Phi Gamma Delta entertained a number of friends very pleasantly at dinner on Thursday evening. The guests were Mrs. Burton Case, and guest, Mrs. Harry Lewis of Chicago, Misses Stanton, Mary McGinnison, Julia Pickard, Blanche Bushnell, Helen McCarthy, Hazel Spencer and Harry Gutches of New York.

The Christian Endeavor Society of the Presbyterian church will give a "crazy supper" this evening, beginning at 5 o'clock.

Mr. Thomas Richards, who has been quite ill at his home on North street for some time, is slowly improving.

And are endorsed by Newark citizens.

Charles Rose, of 549 West Main St., Newark, O., says: "Rheumatism attacked me in the back and joints and I felt touches of it all over my body. I do not think there was a joint that did not pain. My work requires me to stand in water almost constantly, and I think that wet feet was the first cause of my trouble. After suffering for months and months without being able to get anything to help me, I heard of Doan's Kidney Pills and got a box at Crayton's drug store. The day I began using them I was aching all over. My case was so severe that I used three pills three times a day and in forty-eight hours from the time I took the first dose the pain had almost entirely disappeared. I continued the treatment for some little time and have had no return of my trouble since. I have been working in the wet for the past twelve months without suffering at all from my kidneys."

OHIO WESLEYAN

News Items From Delaware College of Interest to Newark Alumni and Former O. W. U. Students.

Delaware, O., Nov. 11.—The students interested at Ohio Wesleyan is now centered around debate. This year she debates both Oberlin and Western Reserve upon the question "Resolved, that congress delegate the power to fix and determine railroad rates to a commission or bureau, the decisions of which shall be of their own force effective."

Most of the improvements under taken in the summer vacation have been completed. The ladies gymnasium at Monnett Hall has been remodeled, re-decorated and furnished with a new equipment; the old Sturgis Hall has been re-modeled and the whole building is now used by the department of chemistry and the mineralogical museum; the engineering annex is now open for use, thus rendering it possible for the first two years of engineering work to be done at the college.

The gymnasium for men is fast nearing completion. The bids for equipment will be let within the next few days.

The recent class elections have resulted in the selection of B. F. Crawford, senior president; Mildred Hickman, junior president; Robert Haiz, sophomore president; and F. W. Rick, freshman president.

The decisive victory of the team over Western Reserve last Saturday has done much to make the athletic prospect brighter.

The enrollment for the opening term stands today at slightly under 1000.

Justice Hickey Tells the Story—Phone Management Changes—A Wedding—Persons.

Utica, O., Nov. 11.—Orlando Hickey, justice of the peace, relates an incident when he was justice of the peace some years ago. It was at a performance of a marriage ceremony when one James Caton and a Miss Rhodhaus were being united in holy wedlock. When he came to that part where the law requires asking the question if any person present objects to his pronouncing the couple man and wife, a big, stalwart fellow yelled out at the top of his voice that he objected. "On what grounds?" asked the "Squire. "Why, he voted the Republican ticket last fall." Such an uproar of laughter convulsed the guests, at this that it did not subside for several minutes, when the "Squire pronounced them man and wife.

Mrs. Anna Funch of Newark, was married last Thursday at 5 o'clock to Mr. Eleanor Evans of New Utica. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. C. Schindel. Mr. Evans is a prosperous farmer, and is well known in Grand Army circles. Mrs. Evans has many friends in Newark. They will be at home in Utica after November 15th.

Utica was well represented at "Buster Brown's" show at Newark auditorium election day evening. Some of those attending were Misses Pansy Hall, Susie Coad, Edith Conard, Beatrice Harris, Messrs. Ray Thatcher, James, John Wildman, Boyd Halder, man, Fred Steiner and A. O. Garrison. Mrs. Estella F. Stultz, our popular telephone manager, on account of poor health, has tendered her resignation to take effect as soon as the new operators become well enough acquainted with their duties to permit of her leaving. Miss Mae Chambers will succeed her as manager, assisted by Miss Lulu Belt and the Misses Jennie and Jessie Stout.

FOOTBALL GOSSIP

At Zanesville this afternoon, the Second Denison eleven will play against the Mercedith Business college eleven. It will be a hard game but the Denison boys have the advantage and will no doubt win from Mercedith. Two Newark boys, Pine and Hershberger will play in this game. Both boys made great showing against Mt. Vernon last Saturday at Granville.

Coach Stanton has a strong football squad left Granville this morning at 7:35 over the T. & O. C., going to Columbus, where they will take the Big Four for Springfield. Wittenburg will be their worthy foe today and though Denison has no thought of losing, it will require hard playing to prevent the Springfield bunch from scoring.

The Rutledge team will be off bright and early Sunday morning for Columbus, where they will play the Nationals, a strong semi-professional football eleven. After having another week's good stiff practice the Rutledge bunch hope to win from Columbus, or at least prevent them from scoring. The lineup of both teams is given:

Nationals.	Rutledge.

WASHING WITHOJT WATER

Is Like Trying to Get Rid of Dandruff Without Herpicide.

Did you ever see any one trying to wash themselves without soap or water? If you did what would you say of him?

It is every bit as foolish to try to get rid of Dandruff and to prevent Baldness by feeding the germs which cause it, with Cantharides, Vaseline, Glycerine and similar substances which form the principal ingredients of most so-called Hair Vigors.

Newbro's Herpicide is successful because it attacks and kills the parasitic germ which feeds on the hair roots. It is the original and only genuine scalp germicide manufactured.

Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

Knights of Pythias.

Newark Lodge No. 13, Knights of Pythias, held its regular meeting in its Castle Hall on Thursday night, after which an old fashioned oyster supper was served to all the members and the visitors who were present. The oysters and other accompaniments were served in the best of style, and all present enjoyed themselves immensely. Preliminary arrangements were made toward organizing a joint Pythian social club in the near future, composed of members of Newark and Boland lodges, to which any Knight of Pythias in the city who is in good standing will be eligible.

A. O. U. W.

Golden Rod lodge No. 100, A. O. U. W. will give a dance for the members and lady friends at their spacious hall on South Park Place on Monday evening. The dance is given in commemoration of the 37th anniversary of the establishment of the order which anniversary occurred on the 27th of October, but could not be celebrated before this time.

Modern Woodmen.

The Neighbors of Cedar Camp, No. 4727, Modern Woodmen of America, will bear in mind that there will be another enjoyable entertainment after the close of the camp on next Wednesday evening, and probably the work of adoption will be put on. Let every Neighbor who possibly can, be on hand Wednesday night.

Odd Fellows.

At the meeting of Newark lodge No. 623, I. O. O. F., held on Monday, there was a good attendance of the members but no business other than routine was transacted. At the meeting next Monday night there will be work in the first degree.

The entertainment and banquet given at Odd Fellows' Temple on Friday night by the members of Mt. Olive Encampment No. 12, I. O. O. F., for Odd Fellows and their friends was very much enjoyed by the large number that was in attendance. The entertainment consisted of music, speaking, etc.

Knights and Ladies of Honor.

Nearly 50 gallant knights and ladies were present Thursday evening at the regular meeting of Scheffler lodge, No. 2507. A short business meeting was held; three candidates were given the obligation and 10 candidates were received after which the doors were thrown open to the friends of the order and a box social was held. A general good time was had. This order will have one hundred new members by the first of the year.

Maccabees.

The Knights of the Modern Maccabees will hold their regular meeting on Monday evening, November 17, at 7:30 in the regular hall. All members are requested to be present as the question of holding a dance on Christmas will be discussed.

Royal Neighbors.

A splendid meeting of the members of Daisy Camp, No. 2574, Royal Neighbors of America, of this city, was held at their hall on Thursday evening, at which time considerable business was transacted, among which was the initiation of three candidates. The invitation extended from the Zanesville camp to Daisy camp of this city to pay it a fraternal visit was accepted and it was decided that the members of Daisy camp go to Zanesville in a body on next Wednesday evening. The Neighbors will meet at the interurban station and the cars will leave for Zanesville at 5:45 o'clock. The fare for the round trip will be 65 cents. The team of Daisy camp will perform the floor work incident to the initiation of a large class of candidates.

Camels.

Monarch lodge No. 66, will give a smoker and social session with a program of music and fun next Tuesday evening, complimentary to Brother Dr. McCleery, mayor-elect of the city. A royal good time will be had by all Camels who attend this session.

The seventh degree was conferred on Bros. Farquhar, Steele and Bright at the last regular meeting.

By vote of the lodge the meeting night was changed back to Tuesday night as heretofore, owing to the fact that many of the brothers are unable to attend on Wednesday night. Please remember Tuesday night is the regular meeting night hereafter.

The tickets for the concert and lecture to be given under the auspices of Monarch lodge in Taylor hall, November 24, are now out and in the hands of a large number of the brothers. The committee desires to place these tickets with every member and they can be secured from Brothers Williams, Danner and Palmer.

A. O. U. W.

Golden Rod lodge No. 100 will celebrate the 37th anniversary of the order by a grand ball on Monday night, November 13, at 8 o'clock. All members of the A. O. U. W. with their wives or lady friends will be given a very cordial invitation to attend this function. Good music will be provided and a good social time will be enjoyed by all those in attendance. Regular business meeting of the lodge at 7:30 sharp, and after the routine business is disposed of the hall will be thrown open to the dancers.

Terrific Race With Death.

"Death was fast approaching," writes Ralph F. Fernandez, of Tampa, Fla., describing his fearful race with death, "as a result of liver trouble and heart disease, which had robbed me of sleep and of all interest in life. I had tried many different doctors and several medicines, but got no benefit, until I began to use Electric Bitters. So wonderful was their effect, that in three days I felt like a new man, and today I am cured of all my troubles." Guaranteed by Hall's drug store, price 50c.

Rutledge Bros. prices the lowest and stock the largest in children's wear in Newark.

B. & O. COMPANY

Plans Improvements on Columbus and Newark Division—Division One of the Busiest.

The management of the B. & O. railroad is planning improvements on the Columbus and Newark division in the nature of an extension of all sidings so that the division which is double-tracked, may have a third main track between Columbus and Newark.

This division which is 33 miles in length, is one of the busiest in the country, being used by both the Baltimore & Ohio and the Pennsylvania for all of their through east and west-bound trains.

It is said that with the completion of the new freight terminals in Columbus the B. & O. railroad will erect a new one on North Fourth street, Columbus, which will have much better facilities for the cleaning and repairing of motive power.

YOUR TURKEY MAY COME HIGH

The Supply Will be Plentiful—Cranberries Will be Scarce—Thanksgiving Outlook.

Despite the claims that Thanksgiving turkey will come high there are indications that the supply will be almost unlimited.

One man who travels through the country is authority for the statement that "the fields are just lousy with them." He says that they are being raised in greater numbers this year than ever before and that the season has been fine for the business.

There has been plenty of fowls to eat and the reasonably dry weather of the early summer was favorable. The only thing that will keep up the prices on turkeys and poultry is the high price of beef and pork. If turkeys were offered at the old time prices people would simply quit buying other meats and would substitute the turkey and the chicken for the roast of beef and the pork chop.

Some of the "trimmings" for your Thanksgiving dinner will be higher than ever, notably cranberries, the crop of which is reported to be several million bushels short this year.

Mrs. Austin's Quick-Raising Buckwheat makes tender, crispy brown cakes. Your grocer can tell you all about it.

EDMISTON'S BOOKSTORE Is full and running over with new goods, bought at the right price and marked to sell at the right price.

A large and elegant line of Framed Pictures, just opened, entirely new ideas and at a heap less money than they are usually sold for.

Our assortment of beautiful Box Papers will have to be seen to be appreciated. Many of the boxes are hand-decorated. The paper and envelopes are elegant. The price most reasonable.

Just in. A lot of late copyrighted Books, regular $1.50 editions, such as "In the Bishop's Carriage," "The Main Chance," "Alice of Old Vincennes," "The Light of Way," Etc. Our price only 50 cents.

The great variety of Sterling Silver Novelties we are displaying is remarkable. The regular 35c kind we sell at 25c. The designs are the latest and the quality guaranteed.

Our Calendar display is larger, prettier and better this year than ever. We are anxious for our customers to see it while it is complete. We have already sold quite a lot. Don't put off buying those pretty little pad Calendars at one and two cents each, for which there is always such a demand.

We have just received over 100 kinds of new Picture Frame Moulding. The very nicest and best we have ever had. The prices at which the moulding are marked will crowd our framing department. But we want it crowded now rather than a month from now.
